University Hall

University Hall. Facing East and overlooking Forest Park, this building, erected in 1901 as the gift of Robert S. Brookings, is the oldest and best known of the buildings on the Campus. With its high, battlemented towers fashioned of red granite in the Tudor Gothic style, University Hall strikes the keynote of the architectural plan of the University.

Ridgley Library. In 1902, this building was constructed with funds donated by Stephen Ridgley. On warm sunshiny days, groups of students may be seen lining the steps and arcade, a mute testimony to Mr. Ridgley's forethought.

Graham Memorial Chapel. Erected in 1907 by Mrs. Benjamin B. Graham as a memorial to her husband.

January Hall. Built by Miss Isabel January as a memorial to her mother, Grace Valle January, and dedicated to the teaching of law.

Ridgley Library

Duncker Hall. Built in memory of Charles H. Duncker Jr. who died in service, this building houses the School of Business and Public Administration.

McMillan Hall. Mrs. William McMillan donated funds for the construction of this dormitory for women which was completed in 1906 and dedicated to her husband, William B. McMillan.

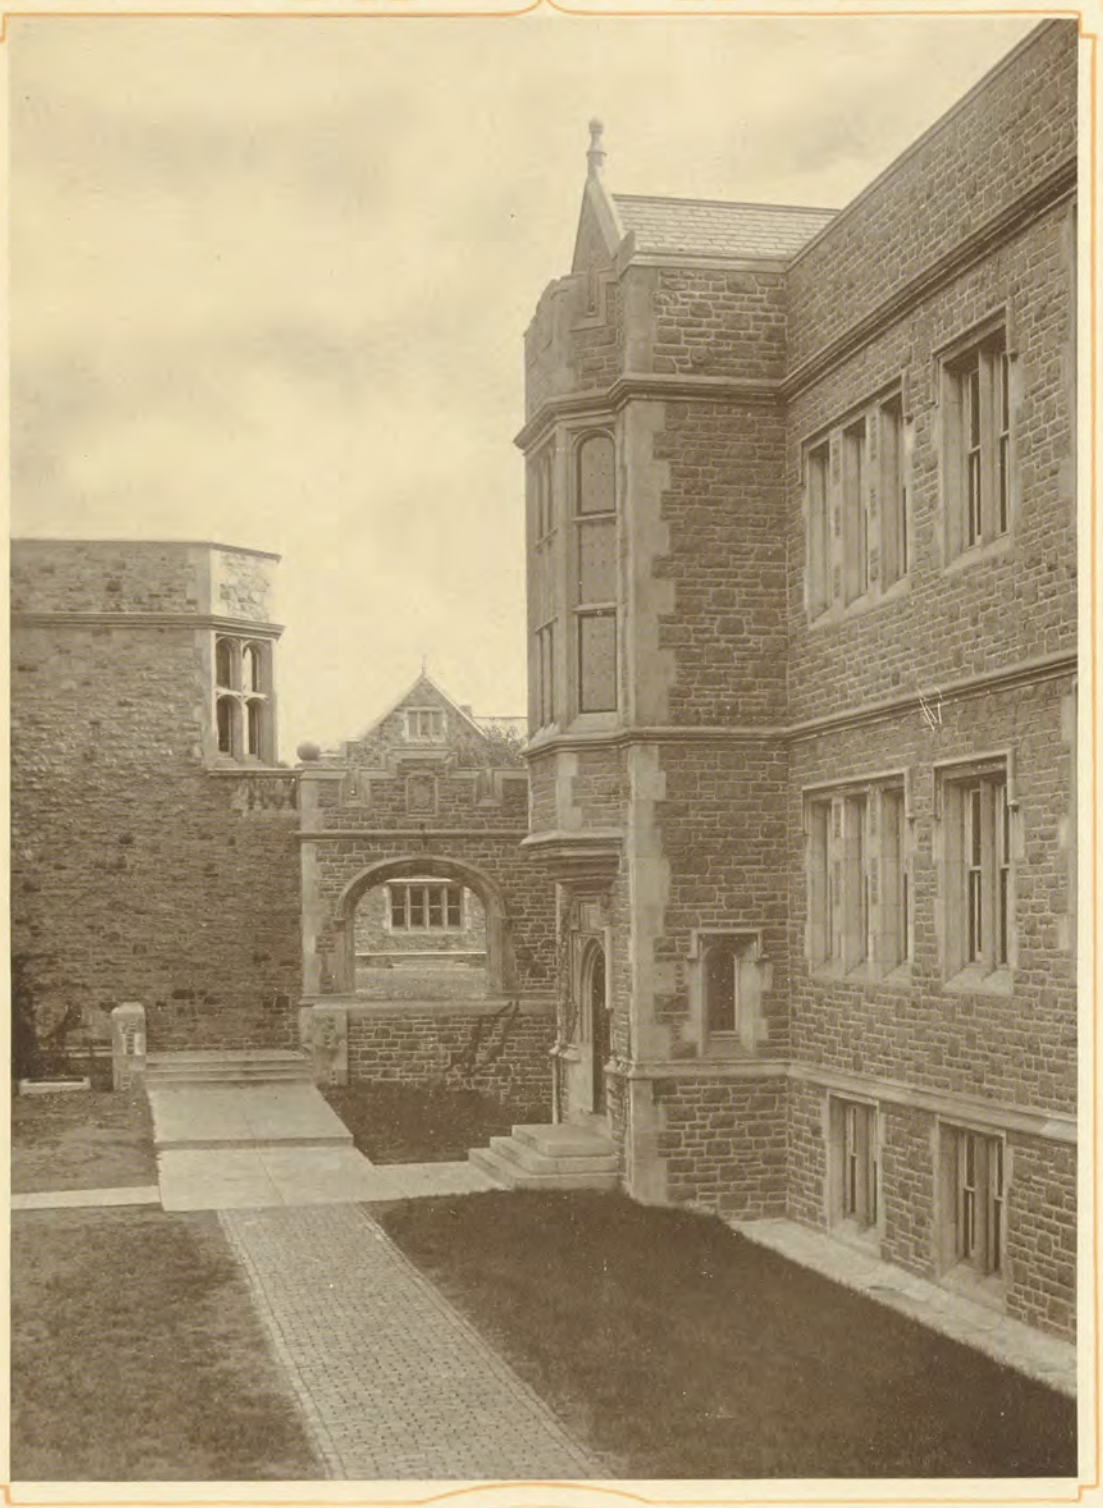

Tower Hall. Constructed in 1902 with funds obtained from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, this dormitory for men can accommodate approximately one hundred and fifty students.

Wilson Hall. Popularly known as "Geology", this building was erected in 1924 by Mrs. Sarah G. Wilson in memory of her husband, Newton R. Wilson.

OLD WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Edited by Arthur O'Neill

In 1883 under circumstances which were rather unusual, Wayman Crow, Saint Louis merchant and state senator from his district, secured a charter for a "seminary of learning" to be called "Eliot Seminary." Senator Crow seems to have been the sole author of the idea, charter, and name, and his sixteen corporators, who later proved themselves in entire accord with it, did not know that they had the responsibility until Mr. Crow came home from Jefferson City with the papers in his pocket. Saint Louis had long needed an institute of higher learning to complete its educational system. The action he took was very timely and fruitful.

A full meeting of the corporation took place on February 22, 1854, exactly one year after the signing of the charter. The holdings of all seventeen of the men would hardly have totaled a half-million dollars, and yet with true pioneer spirit they assumed even greater responsibilities than the eager Senator Crow had cut out for them. At the suggestion of Doctor William G. Eliot, pastor of the church to which most of the corporators belonged, they removed the name "Eliot" and substituted the name "Washington" instead, because of the coincidence of the date of the charter and corporators' meeting have fallen on Washington's birthday. The corporators elected Dr. Eliot president of their board of directors. Dr. Eliot had founded the public school system of Saint Louis and was curator of the State university. He realized that the men were taking a large assignment.

But upon reading the account of the meeting more closely one sees that they humbly admitted that all they could do was to found a great institution. Its expansion must be left to a later generation. Their current purpose was to establish an institution for the public benefit with stress on the idea of usefulness in its curriculum. With this purpose in view they opened the O'Fallon Polytechnic Institute, an evening school for artisans employed during the day.

During the following years, as the full significance of the thing they were doing was impressed on them, they began to hope for a University. They had a growing school with a limitless charter in the largest and most influential city in the Mississippi Valley. They held a very high opinion of both the city and the valley if one judges from the fervent after-dinner talks that were made. Was it not the very thing to do—to establish in this central place a University which should nourish the higher culture of the future republic? They knew of the hardships of such an undertaking, but the opportunity to do something big lay before them and they grasped it.

And so, in 1857, when a non-sectarian provision was put in the charter, the legislature chartered the institution as "Washington University" instead of "Eliot Seminary."

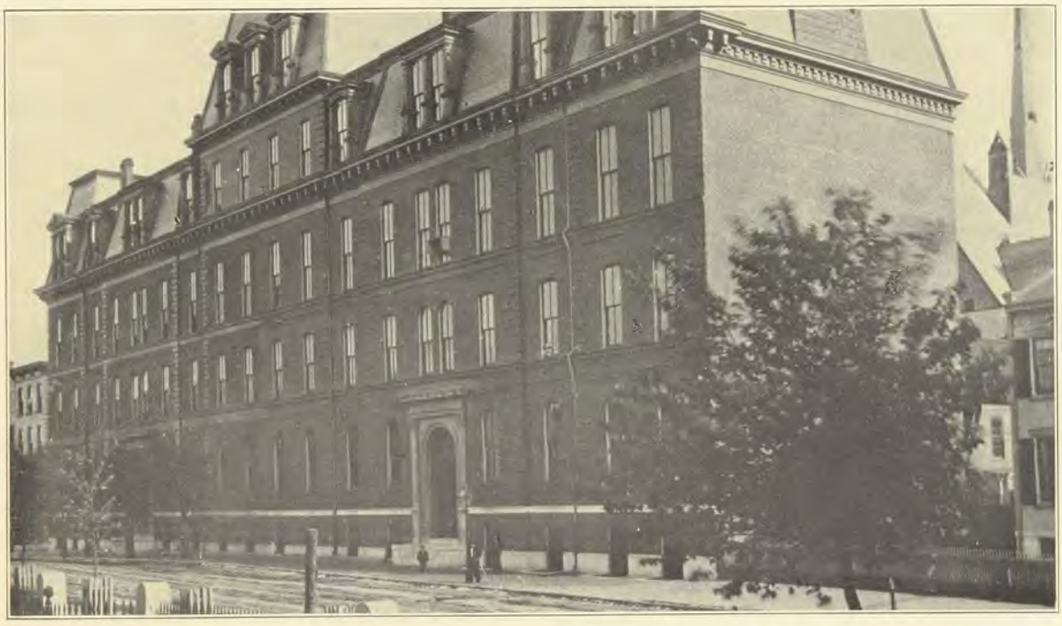

In the same year an inauguration ceremony was held, and an advanced scientific class was organized. A year later they set up the college proper under Chancellor Joseph G. Hoyt, and the first class graduated in 1862. It has been said of the first students to labor their way through the curriculum that very few were of high school grade. The school was really a seminary with the most extravagant intentions of living up to the name it had assumed. But it can be shown from the records of those first few graduates that their training more than made up for their lack of preparation, and that the quality of the entrants was steadily improving. The alumni took leading positions in the community, so that the townspeople came to look upon the fledgling as a university in fact as well as in name.

It was none too early for the university to get its footing, for the Civil War followed close after the inauguration ceremony. Every year counted under the leadership of Dr. Eliot, however, and in 1860 his report showed that the college had gained prestige, being highly regarded by St. Louisans. He proposed the immediate creation of a permanent endowment fund. This was moderately successful, some $80,000 being subscribed at the start by Dr. Eliot and the board of directors. But it required hard work to secure outside subscriptions.

All appointments of professors and instructors in 1861 were made conditional on "the continued ability of the directors to conduct the institution as heretofore," and there was a general reduction of expenses. All was carefully arranged to live out the lean years of the Civil War, Washington University's crucial period.

In 1862 Chancellor Hoyt died and was succeeded in the fall of the same year by William Chauvenet, a man whose field was education and whose broad culture fitted him well for his position as leader of a humanistic institution. He had demonstrated his ability in developing the Naval Academy at Annapolis before he was called to Saint Louis. Like Chancellor Hoyt, he had little sympathy with poor scholarship, and he did much to set the high standards which have been so vigorously maintained.

The year 1867 saw a law school organized, chiefly sponsored by Mr. Henry Hitchcock who served as Dean for many years. This was a radical step and required initiative and foresight, for law was then learned in the law offices.

The original buildings as seen from Seventeenth and Washington

In 1868 the buildings, library, and contents of the O'Fallon Polytechnic Institute were turned over to the Saint Louis Public schools under certain reciprocal conditions, for this was no longer a legitimate branch of University work. This pruning operation was promptly followed by the grafting on of a scientific department, recommended by President Eliot in 1870. The buildings were ready for occupancy in 1871. The department included courses in chemistry, civil engineering, mechanical engineering, and mining and metallurgy. This department has since grown into Washington University's widely known School of Engineering.

In 1869 Chancellor Chauvenet resigned, after a period of illness. Dr. Eliot was made Acting Chancellor, and in 1871 was installed as Chancellor. He was formally saluted as the founder of the University by the Hon. Wayman Crow, who had secured the charter, and it may be udged that Dr. Eliot richly deserved the credit. He had done the financing, and he had assumed the burden of initiative in supervising the general plan.

Dr. Eliot, himself the product of high cultivation, believed that the true province of a university is in the "highest development of intellectual culture." He intended to devote his interests largely to "a good education for the many," but would concentrate fervidly on "the best education for the few." He wanted to make Washington University to Saint Louis what Harvard College is to Boston, or Yale to New Haven. "We would found a university so widely acknowledged in its influence that Saint Louis and Missouri should be honored throughout the world for its being established here," he said.

In 1879 a "School of Art and Design" was established as a department of the University; and soon after Wayman Crow expended $145,000 on a building and endowment for a Museum of Fine Arts. This last was built near the other University buildings of that time, on the northeast corner of Nineteenth and Locust Streets. Then there was $15,000 from Mary Hemenway of Boston for a Department of American History, and about $100,000 which James Smith entrusted to Dr. Eliot at his death, and which founded Smith Academy, a preparatory school for boys as a department of the University. And so it went. Each year found the high hopes of the seventeen corporators a little more conservative, until at last those intentions were expressed in the order of the day at Washington University.

William Chauvenet

In 1885 Dr. Eliot gave a description of the various departments which shows very well what he had accomplished. The Art School was among the best in the United States. The Astronomy Department, though provided with an unpretentious observatory, was regulating the time of several railroad systems and supplying central time for cities all over the West. The undergraduate department had been thoroughly re-organized, and Dr. Eliot said he was willing to compare his graduates with those of any Eastern university. The beginning of the present great library had been made. More than seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars had been spent during Dr. Eliot's Chancellorship.

Because of his advancing years Chancellor Eliot asked to be permitted to resign in 1885. But he did not contemplate a passive resignation; he ended his rule as he had started it—with a drive for endowment. He said that at the time he took over the Chancellorship no one else of acknowledged prestige in education was willing, in spite of the hundred thousand dollar Chancellorship endowment of Hudson E. Bridge, to take the office because it was no better than "western grandiloquism to call Washington University a university." It had earned the respect of the citizens who knew the quality of its product, but it was not widely known.

The University virtually marked time until the advent of another driving spirit ten years later.

With the death of Chancellor Eliot in 1887 disappeared the dynamo which had driven Washington University since its inception. The duties of the Chancellor were performed by the Dean of the College, Professor Marshall S. Snow, until October of 1891, when they were assumed by Professor Winfield Scott Chaplin, educator, engineer, and army officer. But the University's funds dwindled; its old friends had disappeared.

Then Robert S. Brookings stepped into the foreground. With the same energy, enthusiasm, and capacity for organization that had distinguished him in the business world, he turned to the task of the reorganization of the University. Out of his own means, supplemented by contributions from new givers whom he inspired by his zeal, Mr. Brookings established magnificently the fabric which for a time had seemed tottering.

Law School—Washington University.

The former fine arts and law buildings

The first fruit of the new strength in the University was the purchase of a new site opposite the northwest corner of Forest Park. This was the gift of seventy-five friends of the University. Mr. Brookings was also instrumental in securing for Washington University the Russell Institute Fund, amounting to $130,000, which was to be used for endowment purposes only. Then the task of raising money for buildings on the new location was taken in hand.

By 1898 the Corporation had $450,000 in hand, or pledged, and needed only $100,000 to enable it to move to the new site. In February 1899, it announced six buildings—a recitation and administration building, University Hall, donated by Mr. Brookings; two buildings for engineering and architecture, and an engineering laboratory, donated by Samuel Cupples; a chemistry building, donated by Adolphus Busch; and a library building donated by the late Stephen Ridgley. It also announced a gift of $100,000 for endowment by Mr. Brookings, on condition that the Corporation raise $400,000 or more. Washington University in its struggling infancy was set upon its sturdy feet by Robert S. Brookings.

On May 29, 1900, Mr. Brookings and Mr. Cupples announced that they had deeded over to Washington University in fee simple the Cupples Station property at Seventh and Spruce streets, valued then at $3,000,000 par, but actually worth much more, which created the Robert S. Brookings endowment of $1,500,000 and the Samuel Cupples endowment of $1,500,000 and gave Washington University the largest unen umbered endowment of any University in the country at that time. Washington University was beginning to outgrow the pioneering stage. Truly it could be said that the dawn of the new century was the dawn of a new era for Washington University.

In 1901 Washington University leased its new grounds and buildings to the Louisiana Purchase Exposition for a rental of $650,000 to be expended by the University partly for permanent buildings and partly for beautifying the grounds. Tower Hall, Francis Gymnasium, and the Library in part were built from the World's Fair rental.

On account of the World's Fair the University did not move to its new campus until January 30, 1905, after occupying the old Mary Institute building for about a year. Students were dissatisfied with the lease, as they felt that the University should move to its new quarters as soon as possible.

Then began a period of steady growth which continues today. Not a year has gone by in which the University has not announced some notable accession in endowment, equipment, or faculty.

Those who are familiar with the records of Washington University and who possess, by virtue of that intimacy with it which attendance brings, a feeling of close concern in its affairs, find cause for pride in its past achievements. But it is not alone the record of Washington's past, however glorious, of which its friends are proud. A survey of its present splendor and perfection must thrill them all with a feeling of triumph, with a measure of the satisfaction and exultation that is the reward of those whose unselfish expenditure of energy and wealth meets fruition in the Washington University of today.

Indeed there is much in this great institution to evoke admiration. One feels a desire to contemplate the entire University in one comprehensive glance and to depict it with one descriptive stroke, but its broadness and great complexity prevent this. One must consider it part by part to know it well.

The visible properties of the University arrest the attention first, and this is well, for Washington's physical aspect is fair. Situated at the edge of a great city, the campus with its fine buildings forms a part of a region of civic beauty.

If human vision could really penetrate the future, surely a gratifying spectacle of Washington University of a distant tomorrow would reward its gaze.

DR. WILLIAM P. EDMUNDS

Director of Athletics

Dr. Edmunds has been connected with the University in his present capacity since 1923 when he was reappointed as Director of Athletics by Chancellor Hadley. His first appointment came in 1913 soon after his graduation from the University of Michigan where "Big Bill" had made an enviable name for himself in athletics. When the United States entered the war, Dr. Edmunds left Washington to enter the service. Since his reappointment, the athletic standing of the University has improved, and through the development of intramural sports an opportunity has been provided for each student to participate in organized athletics.

WASHINGTON 0 AMES 6

The Bears went down to defeat before the Ames Cyclones on Francis Field in the first game of the season after having completely outplayed the Iowa team for three quarters of the game. This encounter as well as the three succeeding ones was played on a water soaked field which hampered the light Washington team considerably.

Washington's best opportunity to score came near the end of the first half, when Hayes failed to complete a short pass over the goal line after the ball had been returned on an Ames punt forty yards. In the last quarter the Bears weakened considerably and the Cyclones made long gains, a higher score being averted only by some costly fumbles in the Cyclone backfield.

HAYES, Q.B.

WHITLER, F.B.

WASHINGTON 25 ROLLA 2

The Washington team administered a sound beating to the Rolla Miners, outclassing them in every department of the game. The Bears undoubtedly would have rolled up a heavier score if their mentor had not decided to give the regulars a rest and send in the substitutes in the later stages of the game.

The features of the game were the offensive power and interference displayed by the Washington men. Mickey McDonough ripped through the line for many substantial gains, distinguishing himself as the most consistent ground gainer while Kaplin and Kurz were a bulwark of strength in the line. Paul Harding, flashy half-back dashed 45 yards for a touchdown. The other scores were made by Senne and Collins.

Libman, C.

In their third game of the season and their second conference game, Coach Higgins' Bears, outweighed fifteen pounds to the man, went down to a fighting defeat at the hands of the powerful Nebraska eleven by a score of 20 to 6. This score, however, is not really indicative of the brand of football displayed by the Bears against their heavier opponents. Facing the team that had the week before outrushed and outplayed the Missouri Tigers, the Bears in the third quarter pushed over their first conference touchdown by a brilliant running and passing attack. It was in this contest that Al Hayes, easily the outstanding player of the game, broke through the hitherto impenetrable Husker line and raced forty-two yards for a touchdown.

The line showed real fight notwithstanding the terrific thrusts of the Nebraska forward wall. McCarroll was outstanding in consistently stopping runs around his end; while Kaplin and Hoffman, Bear linesmen, proved themselves to be real defensive stars, often breaking through the Husker defense and smearing the runners in their tracks.

Nebraska scored the first touchdown of the game shortly after the opening whistle blew. A Bear pass was intercepted by a Husker back on the Bear's twenty-three yard line and Nebraska scored a few minutes later on a pass from Brown to Celrich. The second quarter saw the powerful Nebraska plunging attack place the ball in scoring position and score on a line buck by Marrow. Stephens added the extra point by a drop kick. Washington's only score in the third quarter was followed by another Nebraska touchdown, despite the desperately brilliant work of the Washington defense. The fourth quarter was scoreless. Although the great weight and plunging ability of the Huskers was beginning to tell upon the Bear eleven, the latter, nevertheless, succeeded in preventing their opponents from scoring further.

Senne, H.B.

DRAKE, T.

WASHINGTON U. 0

The Homecoming game with the Sooners played before a record crowd of old grads resulted in a 21 to 0 defeat for the Bears in one of the best games of the season. The Bears played an excellent brand of football, scoring six first downs, but they came within scoring distance only once during the entire game. That was in the first quarter when the ball was lost on the Sooner's twenty-five yard line after Al Hayes had carried it thirty-five yards.

The outstanding play of the game

MCCARROLL, L.E.

Duncan, R.E.

came in the final period when Potts, the star Oklahoma halfback, tore off for a sixty yard run to place the ball on the Washington two yard line, whence it was plunged over for a touchdown on the next play. A few minutes later Potts again got hold of the ball and carried it twenty yards for the final score of the game. Oklahoma's first touchdown was chalked up in the second quarter and came on a 17 yard forward pass across the Washington goal line.

Hoffman, R.G.

Lohrding, H.B.

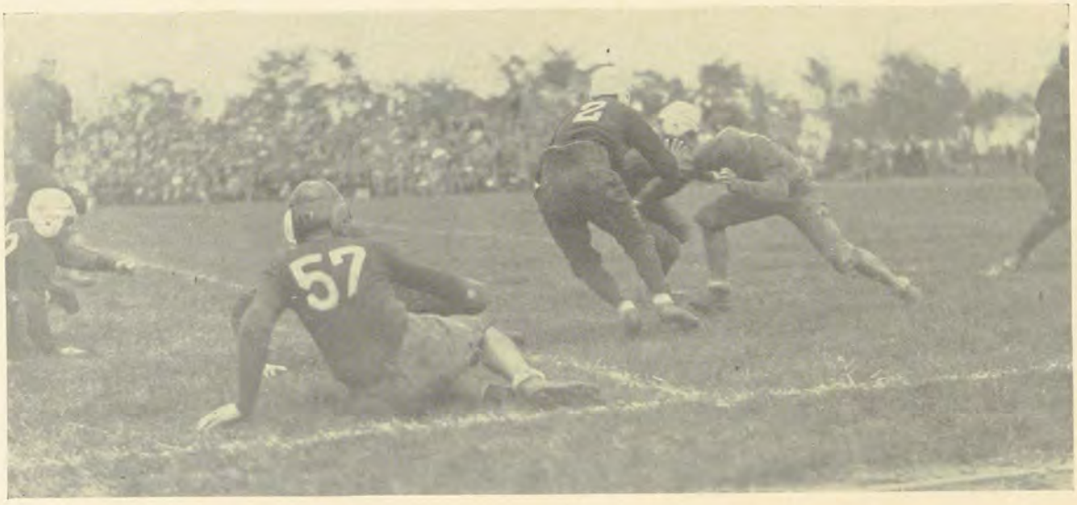

Washington 0 Grinnell 7

The Bears went down before the Grinnell Pioneers by a lone touchdown in what probably amounted to the least exciting game of the season. In this contest the Bears were handicapped by the absence of Whitler and McDonough. The muddy field also hampered the team's stellar player, Al Hayes, who found himself slowed down considerably.

Washington showed none of the offensive power which had characterized the play against Nebraska the week before, but the eleven showed an excellent defense. The punting of Hayes, who did all of the kicking, was good. The cause for the defeat, of course, was the absolute collapse of the usually effective aerial attack, the Bears completing only two of eleven attempts at passing.

Brown, C.

Washington U. 3
Oklahoma A. & M. 37

Kurz, L.G.

Puzzled by a dazzling aerial attack, and evidently at a disadvantage from their long trip, the Bears lost a loosely contested game to the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater, on Saturday, November 6, by the score of 37 to 3. Play during the first quarter seemed to be the forerunner of a hotly contested struggle, but as the game progressed the advantage fell gradually to the Aggies.

The Bears opened the game with a display of spirit which belied the final outcome. Failing to break through the line for any considerable gain, field general Al Hayes changed his tactics and attempted a passing play. The result was a long flip by Harding to Duncan which put the ball on the Aggies' 12 yard line and gave the Bears an opportunity to score. However, attempts to puncture the Aggie front proved vain, and Hayes booted the pig-skin between the posts for Washington's only score.

Rosetti, E.

Washington U. 6

Kaplin, T.

Inspired by the traditional "Beat Mizzou" spirit and backed by a large following of Red and Green rooters who had hopefully trailed their warriors to Columbia, the Bears fought valiantly against tremendous odds of weight and experience in the heretofore annual clash with Missouri University, on November 13, but were overwhelmed, 45 to 6. The local gridmen threw a genuine scare into the Missouri followers when on the first three plays of the game they counted a touchdown on a trick play and a pass, but the machine-like regularity of Missouri's charges quickly broke down any semblance of good defensive work displayed by the Bears.

In the first period only did it appear that the wishes of the Red and Green followers might be fulfilled. Missouri won the toss and Flamank kicked off to Captain Mahan. The Bear leader made a nice return of twenty yards, after which Al Hayes carried the ball on a trick play and sprinted past the entire Tiger outfit for a gain of 70 yards. At this stage of the game things certainly looked bright for Washington, and the local rooters were clamoring for a touchdown. The next play, a pass from Harding to McCarroll, worked to perfection, and not a single Tiger was near the lanky end when he received the ball and stepped over the line for the opening touchdown of the game. It was the first time this season that Washington led a valley opponent by a margin of a touchdown.

From that time on, however, the Bears had little chance whatever even to get near the Tiger's goal line. Missouri apparently fearing a repetition of the 1923 game, started a march against the Bears that shortly resulted in a touchdown, and began a one-sided route. The fray ended in what newspapers termed a riot—something which spectators and enthusiastic followers of both teams did not realize or discover until the daily journals heralded their accounts. Suffice it to say that public opinion was stirred up considerably and each university to maintain its prestige had to pursue a course which finally resulted in the abrogation of all athletic relations with the state institution for an indefinite period.

Vesper, C.

Washington U. 0

Washington went down to defeat before the Quantico Marines in the final game of what might be termed a disastrous gridiron season. It might be said though that the eleven men, all of whom played throughout the game, covered themselves with glory in holding their opponents who outweighed them twenty pounds to the man, to so low a score as 13-0. Save for the two instances when Levey, the flashy Marine half-back, slipped away for the runs which netted touchdowns, it might be said that the Bears outplayed their opponents.

Both teams resorted to a line-plunging attack, but the Washington aggregation, because of its lightness, was handicapped considerably on account of the wet field. Their heavier opponents, however, merely dug in, and their weight carried them over.

Burch, H.B.

Bollinger, G.

Quantico Marines 13

The first of the Marines' scores came in the second quarter when Levey, behind perfect interference, turned right end for a 52 yard run to the line. In the fourth quarter as the result of a fumble, the Marine star dashed down the side lines for 72 yards and a touchdown. The absence of penalties was a remarkable feature of the game. Only three were chalked up during the entire fray. Both teams tried very few passes, but the Marines scored eight first downs to the Bears' three.

The opening ceremony was conducted by the Marine Band. While the band played the Star Spangled Banner the American flag was raised and all stood at attention. Jiggs, the Marine bulldog mascot, was led in, and came near having complications with Whitey, the Bear Mascot.

WASHINGTON U. 42 GRINNELL 0

The Bear Cubs were given but one chance to show their mettle during the football season, but they improved this opportunity as well as could be desired, emerging victors over the Grinnell Frosh by the score of 42-0. Registering twenty-one first downs to their opponents five, and completing six out of eight passes, the Washington youngsters proved their complete superiority in all the departments of the game and left the spectators with high hopes for the success of the varisty next year.

In the first game of the season the Bears swamped the Rolla Miners by the decisive score of 55-23. Rolla got off to an early lead, but the Washington quintet, showing a criss-cross weaving style of attack which yielded them innumerable set-up shots from underneath the basket, overcame the Miners in short time, and set up an almost air tight defense. Once the bombardment of the Rolla goal got started, the fear of the Bear supporters was dispelled, and there was little doubt as to the final outcome of the game.

While Heinrich, Eckert, Rippetoe, and Captain Stanford were going on a scoring rampage, the Bear defense, led by the brilliant guarding of Kurz, was so successful as to almost hold the Miners scoreless during the second half. Although the Rolla five did not show up to particular advantage in the game, Tamm and Orchard, with two field goals each, were easily their outstanding players. In this season-opener, the Bears, though missing several rather easy shots, showed a really powerful scoring punch and an excellent defense.

In the game marking the resumption of athletic relations between Washington and St. Louis University, the Bears defeated the Billikens by a score of 35-24. The Bears were slow in getting their stride, but after the first ten minutes of play they rescued the lead and gradually increased their margin to victory. St. Louis, regarded as having very little chance of winning the game, gave a wonderful exhibition of itself, and fought throughout to keep in the running.

The first half was more exciting than anticipated, with the Billikens displaying surprising strength and the Bear quintet failing to play effectively. The Washington team was handicapped considerably by the absence of Carl Stanford from the lineup, and until the last quarter was lacking in the usual snappy team work. In that period, however, they rolled up a very safe margin.

The Field House was decorated with the colors of both universities, and a small group of Billiken rooters echoed back the Bear cheers from the multitude surrounding them.

In the first valley game of the season the Bears met the strong Kansas Jayhawkers, five consecutive times champions of the conference. In this game the Bears were hopelessly outclassed and at no time were the Jayhawkers hard pressed, winning by the score of 31-15. The almost air-tight defense forced the Bears to rely for most of their points on long shots from the middle of the floor. Both sides used a short criss-cross offense, with Captain Hutton starring for the Bears. Kurz was the stellar defense man of the Washington quintet.

Showing a remarkable offense and a sturdy defense the Nebraska Cornhuskers successfully trounced Coach Don White's cagers by the score of 37-20. The Bears played a good game, but were seemingly outclassed as far as team play was concerned, and the Cornhuskers ran rough shod over the home team.

The Bears could not get started in the first half and when the gun popped they were trailing, 25-8. They came back in the second half, however, and for time it seemed as if they were going to win from their formidable enemy. In spite of the fact that it was a nonconference game both teams played at top speed. Rippetoe played a good game at guard as did Hutton and Heinrich who led in the scoring.

HUTTON, F.

BASKETBALL

With a new line up, Coach Don White's basket tossers soundly trounced the Grinnell Pioneers, 34-20, to gain their first Missouri Valley victory of the season. The Bears displayed excellent team work and for the first time of the season combined clever passing and floor work with effective shooting. The game as a whole was rather slow, and full of unnecessary roughness. The first half was quite uneventful, while the second period saw Washington doing some real shooting, during which time the Bears kept hammering away, and literally showered the hoop with successful shots.

Eckert, the Bears' stellar floor guard, was the individual star of the game, both on the offense and defense, caging five field goals. Kurz also starred for Washington. He played a brilliant game at back guard, getting the ball time and again and dribbling down the court either to pass or to shoot.

The Bears lost their home game with Drake by a score of 24-19. They got away to a slow start in the first half, but returned to the floor in the second half with new vigor, staging a splendid rally in the last five minutes of play. The first half of the game was Drake's, Captain Everett locating the basket from almost any place on the floor. The Bears were unable to break through the Bulldog defense and at the end of the half were trailing 14-5.

In the second half Captain Hutton led a whirlwind rally making a free throw and two field goals in rapid succession. Not until Drake made a substitution when the score stood at 19-22 was the rally broken up.

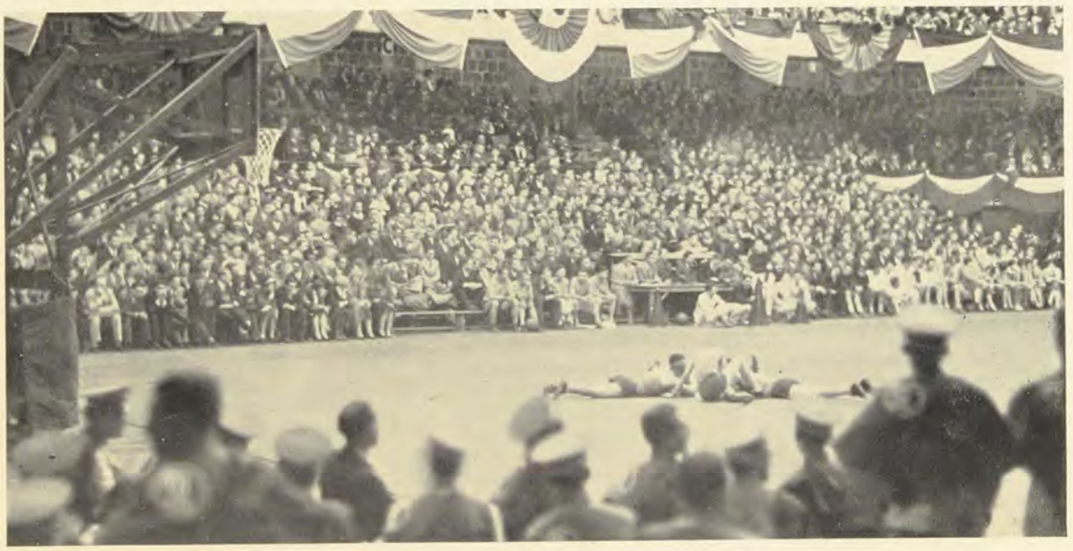

Manifesting the same offensive weakness during the first half which characterized their play all season, the Bears lost their second encounter with Grinnell 21-18. Although the Bears played with the same line up with which they beat the Pioneers at St. Louis, they were incapable of finding the basket and were trailing 15-5 at the end of the first half.

With one minute to play the Bears staged a rally which, of course would have worked wonders earlier in the game, but as the remaining time was so short, it was of no avail.

In the Bear's second game of the season with Drake, they were leading by six points a few minutes before the end of the game, but a last minute rally by the Iowans turned an almost certain victory into defeat, Drake winning by a score of 25-22. Washington made a greater number of field goals than her opponent but the boys were unable to hold their own in the free throws. Meyer, Drake's star forward, succeeded in caging eight out of nine free throws himself.

ECKERT, G.

BASKETBALL

RIPPETOE, F.

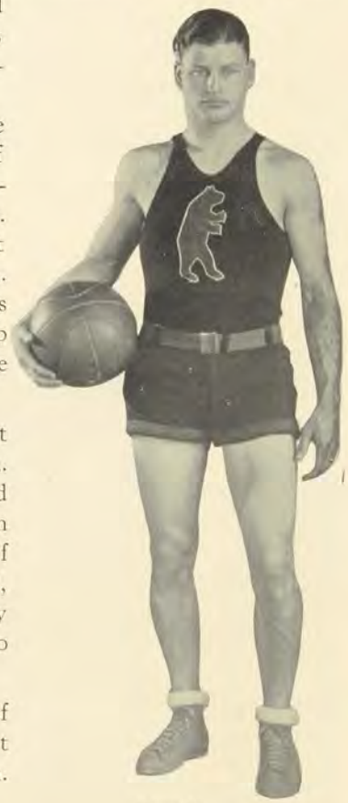

The Bulldogs overran the Bears in the first few minutes soon bringing the score to 8-1. Washington was unable to break through for short shots and the long ones were not going through the basket. However by the end of the half the score was sort of evened up, being 14-11. After the beginning of the second period the Bears exhibited a brand of floor work which completely outclassed Drake, and were soon at the heavy end of a 22-16 score, with but a few minutes left before the end of the game. Washington's defense broke and the Bulldogs began a rally which clinched the game for them.

Carl Stanford led the Bears in the second half, playing a wonderful game, amassing four field goals in succession. He was high point man in the game, making twelve points all told. Kurz and Eckert also played an excellent game.

Parisho and Meyer were the outstanding players for Drake.

An apparent inability on the part of the Bears to locate the basket during the first quarter gave Oklahoma a long lead which they never relinquished, and the Sooners easily defeated the Bears by the score of 46-25. The Sooners' team showed one of the fastest breaking defenses that had been seen on the Washington floor this season.

The Bears did not get a single point in the first five minutes of play, while the Sooners were peppering the hoop for fifteen points. As the half went by the Bears got started and the half ended 21-14. The Bears gained in the second half and at one time the score was 24-22. In the last five minutes of play, however, Oklahoma ran up twenty points while the Bears were held in check. Stanford was the individual star for Washington scoring fourteen points.

KURZ, G.

For the first time of the season the Bears got off to a flying start and as a result nosed out the Oklahoma Aggies by the score of 37-34. The Bears outplayed the Aggies throughout the game and seemed superior in every respect. Led on by the brilliant work of Captain Stanford and Eckert, the Bears increased their lead and at the half were ahead 22-10. In the second period, however, they lagged, and the Aggies climb was rapid. From then on the game was fairly rough, and Eckert was banished from the fray for committing too many fouls.

Captain Stanford and Eckert were the outstanding players of the evening, but were closely followed by Captain Hutton. Eckert gathered in twelve points and the two captains eight points each.

BASKETBALL

The Bears won their second game from St. Louis University in the Billiken's new gymnasium by the score of 39-23. The game was decided after the Bears were able to overcome the stubborn defense that was put up by the Billiken quintet.

Both teams had considerable difficulty in getting started and in the first five minutes of play neither team scored.

Captain Stanford was the outstanding player of the evening and he succeeded in caging six field goals and two free throws for a total of fourteen points.

On Monday night, the 21st of February, the Bears met for a second time the powerful Jayhawkers, and fell after a well-contested game by the score of 27-18. Due to a slow start by the Bears the Jayhawkers got away to a 9-1 lead. Peterson, the Kansas center, repeatedly gave the ball to Kansas on the tip-off. Hutton was the star for the Bears, sinking some of his characteristic mid-floor shots. Eckert also starred, making three out of the four Bear free throw tallies. The Bear defense showed a great improvement in this game.

LOHRDING, F.

J. STANFORD, F.

The Bears ended their second road trip by losing to Nebraska 41-34. The Washington scorers were dangerous throughout the game, however, and at one time during the second half were leading 31-26. The playing of the Bears was especially notable for its long shots, and at times the Cornhuskers were almost helpless under a bombardment of effective long distance tosses.

Eckert was high point man for Washington and was outstanding throughout the game. His six field goals were all scored from quite a distance from the loop, and together with Captain Stanford, he kept the Bears in the running until the last few minutes of play.

Although the Bears were superior in long shots, the Cornhuskers adopted the same tactics, and made the game almost entirely an offensive one. Neither team seemed to pay much attention to staving off of the attack of the other.

On March 1st, the Bears concluded their comparatively disasterous season. They played a nip and tuck game with the Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater. At one time during the second half the score stood 12-11 in the Bears' favor. Late in the fourth quarter the score was 18-18; then the Aggies scored three baskets in rapid succession and sewed up the game. The game was unique in that there was only one substitution during the entire evening when McCarroll went in for Hutton, who had four personal fouls against him. Lohrding, Stanford, and Eckert were the leading Bear scorers. Collins, the Oklahoma center, was high point man with three field goals and two free throws. The final score was 24-19 in favor of the Aggies.

In the last game of the season the Sooners downed the Bears, 22-17, in a last minute spurt. The Bears displayed unusual defensive strength and shooting talent, but the Sooners turned the tables in the closing minutes. Stanford proved to be the outstanding player on the floor despite the fact that his opponent towered severa inches above him. The Washington captain made four of his team's field goals and three of the charity shots for a total of eleven points. Once again, however, Washington's inability to make good on their free throws was an important element in their losing the game.

For Oklahoma, Lecrone and Pinkerton, the excellent guard combination played the most effective game. Lecrone, who caged three of the Southerner's six field goals, sewed up the game for his team in the last quarter with two shots through the loop.

Pipkin, C.

In the latter part of the season, Coach White's team showed rapid improvement over the type of game played at the first of the schedule. It took some time, but finally White succeeded in perfecting the tactics of his offense, and the Bears began to show a scoring punch which was noticeably lacking at the start of the season. Their pass-work was exceptionally good throughout the year, and combining this with good floor-work and improved shooting, the Washington cagers soon hit their stride and began to play real basketball.

It was only natural after the loss of such stars as Cox, Seago, and Winkler, that the first part of the season did not produce a brand of basketball equal to the expectations of the Bear followers, who for years have depended on their cagers to bring home the laurels which have been lost in other sports. To fill the vacancies left by graduation, Coach White was forced to make use of his raw material in rounding out the team. Carl Stanford, a forward from last year's squad, was groomed for the position of center which had been vacated by Russell Seago. Ralph Kurz, a sophomore, displayed no little ability in filling the gap left at guard by Ted Winkler, who completed his three years of Varsity basketball last year. The third position, that of forward, was taken by Theis Lohrding, who although new to the Washington squad, played his position nearly as effectively as Cox had before him.

Although at the first of the season the team was stiff and lacking in co-ordination, it was not long before the men had become accustomed to their new positions and displayed some very pretty teamwork to say nothing of frequent brilliant individual plays. As early as the Grinnell game the team showed the effectiveness of rapid and harmonious playing, and this, with the starring of Stanford, Hutton, Kurz, and Eckert carried the team to victory.

In spite of the size handicap our team played a brilliant brand of basketball the latter part of the season. Carl Stanford, captain of the team, was out of the game for some time because of injuries and illness. After Carl recovered he played a great game of basketball. He was a deadly shot and was high point man in almost every game. Frank Hutton, the other captain, was a hard fighter and could be depended on in a pinch. Frank was fast on the floor and very accurate on his long shots. Kurz was probably one of the best guards in the Misssisippi Valley. Ralph was the type of guard who covers the whole floor. He had a part in nearly every play and whenever he thought it necessary he would be under the basket shooting. Kurz was a real fighter and it was almost impossible to stop him when he dribbled down the floor. Eckert played guard for most of the season yet he managed to break into the scoring in every game he played. He was a fast shifty guard and was probably the best dribbler on the squad. He will be captain next year. Rippetoe, who substituted at forward and center, played his best game at the center position, and in spite of his light weight fought hard whenever he was in the lineup.

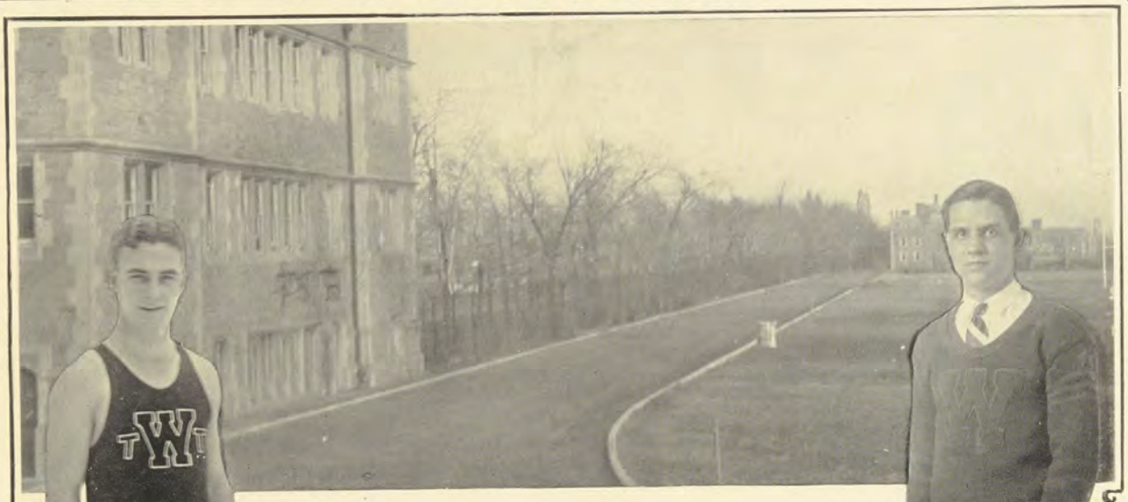

HEINRICH, F.

It is extremely likely that next year's team will be a strong one since only two men, Captains Hutton and Stanford, will be lost by graduation. The remainder of the team, with this year's experience behind it, will be better fitted to meet Valley competition.

TRACK SEASON 1926

McDONALD

Coach Hennings started out the 1926 track season with an intensive training schedule on the new board track in the Field House. The Bears had their first taste of competition at the Illinois Relays, on February 27. Captain Willmann, McDonald, Ledbetter, and Hageman made the trip.

This intercollegiate meet is the biggest indoor field and track meet of the middle west, attracting the cream of the undergraduate talent of the country.

A little over a week before the Drake Relays, Coach Hennings was taken ill and the Bear squad was without his services from that time on, Coach Davis taking his place. At the Drake Relays held April 24 at Des Moines, Fred Hageman, star Bear high jumper, outclassed a good field to win the high jump event with a leap of 5 feet 10½ inches. He was the only Washington athlete to place. The mile relay team, upon which the hopes of the Pikeway were centered, failed to break into the scoring. Although the meet was held under very adverse weather conditions it was not without some outstanding performances, the most notable of which was the breaking of the 100 yard dash record by Locke of Nebraska. The old record, which had stood for twenty years, was 9.6 seconds, set by Kelley in 1906; Locke's time was 9.5 seconds.

On April 30, the Bears won their only dual meet, beating McKendree by a score of 80½ to 30½. Washington captured twelve out of the fifteen possible firsts. Threlkeld and Harding both captured two first apiece. Threlkeld won the 220 yard low hurdles and the broad jump. His jump measured 20 feet 8¼ inches. Harding ran a brilliant quarter mile in 52.4 seconds. He also won the 220 yard dash and beat his man in the mile relay. Hudson won the 120 yard high hurdles. Captain Willmann ran a good race to capture the mile run in 2:03. The feature of this race was the battle for second place between Carroll of Washington and Martin of McKendree. This pair battled all the way from the last turn for the lead, but neither could hold any advantage over the other, coming in stride for stride to tie second place. Hageman again won the high jump, only having to go 5 feet 10 inches.

HAGEMAN

TRACK SEASON 1926

Cox won the mile in 4:47, and Bob Smith won the two mile. Winkler won the shot put with a heave of 37 feet 9 inches. The Bear relay team, composed of Harding, Benz, Carroll, and Willmann won the mile relay in 3:31.

In their dual meet with Missouri on May 8 the Bears did not fare so well, gathering in only 17 points along side of Missouri's 111. However, Captain Willmann ran one of the most brilliant races of his career to win the half mile in 1:57.2. McDonald tied for first in the pole vault. Hudson took third in the high hurdles, while Hageman and Ledbetter tied for first in the high jump. Hageman also got a third in the javelin.

On May 14, the Bears met the University of Oklahoma, again coming out at the tail end of a 94½ to 36½ score. At no time during the entire meet were the Bears able to overcome the flying Sooners. Taking firsts in the first four events, the Sooners gained a lead that they never relinquished. The Bears gained three first places and a tie for first in one other event. Harding won the 440 in the fast time of 52.2. Hageman and Ledbetter again tied for first in the high jump. Captain Willmann won the mile in 2:01.1. The Washington relay team, composed of Captain Willmann, Harding, Carroll, and Eckert, also came out victorious, running it in 1:25.

WILLMANN

LEDBETTER

On May 21, Washington closed the season at the Valley Meet at Lincoln, Nebraska. Washington placed second in the mile relay, nosing out Missouri for the place, and gained a tie for second in the high jump. The Nebraska flyers were the only ones to show their heels to the Bears in the relay, and were forced to run the distance in 3:22.4 to beat out Washington's team composed of Harding, Carroll, Eckert, and Willmann. Hageman and Ledbetter tied with eight other men for second in the high jump at 5 feet 10 inches. The meet was the scene of many outstanding performances which resulted in six conference records passing into history. Locke of Nebraska furnished the greatest thrill in running the 100 yard dash, and Richardson of Missouri and Wirig of Nebraska broke the existing discus and pole-vault records.

TRACK SEASON 1927

The Bear track squad this spring has been very fortunate in good weather which has permitted out-door practice almost entirely. Coach Edmunds worked out his men in the field house during the winter, and has been able to round out the team in fairly good condition. For the first time in years Washington can look forward to the track season with a feeling of optimism.

In addition to the four letter men, Harding, Eckert, Ledbetter, and Captain McDonald, there is quite an array of second year men, including Moore, Falzone, Greer, Mahan, Hall, Millard, Kurz, and Whitler.

Coach Edmunds has divided his squad into four teams with a letter man acting as captain of each team. The teams are to compete with each other in a series of three meets, and a prize will be given to the team having the greatest number of total points.

In the dashes, Ledbetter, Hayes, Mansfield, Falzone, Harding, and Benz have been running in excellent time and should take care of that department in a highly satisfactory fashion. Ted Whitler and Ralph Kurz will be the main reliance of the Bears in the weight and field events, and should have little difficulty in placing near the top in the Valley meets. In the relays the Bears are in a position to make as good a showing as anyother school in the Valley, with six men from which to pick a fast combination. Smith, Posey, Eckert, Harding, Velde, and Benz are all fast men with plenty of endurance.

The Bear schedule calls for a meet with the Oklahoma Sooners at Norman and with the Arkansas Razorbacks at Fayetteville on April 21 and 23 respectively. The Drake Relays at Des Moines are set for April 30. The Bears will meet the Oklahoma Aggies at Francis Field on May 7, and will be represented at the Missouri Valley Meet at Lincoln, Nebraska on May 20 and 21.

Arnold Willmann, the Bear star half-miler of last year, has been coaching the Frosh track squad, which shows signs of real progress. Among the men who look particularly good and who are certain to make strong bids for berths on next year's varsity are: Poos, in sprints, high and broad jump; Miller, Hageman, and Weber in the high jump; Nash, Andrews, and Miller, in the sprints; and Paris and Jablonsky in the weights. Other yearlings who are doing well include Weber and Woods in the hurdles, and Tanner, Huf, and Campbell in the quarter mile.

Coach Edmunds is working up a varsity squad with all-round strength which undoubtedly will compare very favorably with the other Valley teams.

BASEBALL

CONRADES, Catcher

With the reinstatement of baseball as a major sport at Washington, Coach Davis, assisted by the veteran "Spaget" Magualo, embarked upon the 1927 Baseball season with an unusually large number of experienced men from which to build up the varsity nine. Captain Cheatham, Stanford, Conrades, and Heist, members of the nine of two years ago were to serve as the nucleus around which Coach Davis hoped to build his team.

An early spring with fairly constant weather conditions facilitated spring practice, and within a few weeks the squad began to round into nearly mid-season form. There was a wealth of pitching material with Beckman, Heist, Tompkins, Eichler, and Sutter all showing promise as moundsmen. Bill Beckman and Heist seem to have cinched the job of hurling, while Eichler was transferred to third base. Ralph Conrades had established himself as the first string catcher again, although Chapman and Rickert showed real form and looked good enough to get into the line-up fairly often.

Coach Davis expected the following to constitute the Bear infield: first base, Carl Stanford; second base, Captain Bert Cheatham; third base, Eichler; and shortstop, Rhueman. Wagner appeared outstanding as an infield substitute, playing well at any of the infield jobs. Of the group mentioned, Conrades, Stanford, and Cheatham are all reliable and consistent hitters.

Positions in the outfield had not been ascertained so clearly yet. Stillman and Miltenberger seemed to be the most promising. Both are good fielders, and Stillman possesses an unusually good batting eye. They will probably hold down two of the positions, while the third fielder could be chosen from a large group of capable players.

SANDERS, Coach

By winning five out of six dual meets, Coach Sander's Washington University tennis team established itself as one of the outstanding aggregations in the Missouri Valley. The men, who composed the winning Red and Green squad, were Captain John Gustafson, Chick Sigoloff, Hebert Weinstock, Sidney Smith, and Clark Clifford.

Handicapped at the beginning of the season by inclement weather, which made practice nearly impossible, the Washington team invaded the south on April 30 and May 1, to return with the scalps of Sewanee and Vanderbilt on their belts. Sewanee was defeated three matches to two, while Vanderbilt was vanquished four to one.

Returning home the Bear netmen engaged in matches against the powerful Oklahoma Sooners, tying them three matches to three. In the feature contest Sigoloff, number one ranking Bear player, out drove Captain Royer, ace of the visitors, in a brilliant match to win 3-6, 7-5, 7-5, after Royer had him match point at 5-4.

In an encounter on May 8 the local stars smashed out a 6-0 victory over Missouri. The Tigers never had a chance, failing to take a single set, and falling easy victims to the Hilltoppers, superior driving and chopping.

Next on the list of challengers came Drake. The Iowans had to be content with a lone victory in the doubles, for Gustafson's men won both singles, giving them the contest.

SIGOLOFF

TENNIS 1926

In the last dual meet of the season held May 18 on the local courts, the formidable Kansas University team fell before the Bear netmen. Weinstock, Sigoloff, and Gustafson were going at top speed and swept the Kansans off their feet with a terrible attack. Sigoloff downed Muir Rogers, former Valley champion, 6-4, 6-1, while Hoag of Kansas bowed to Weinstock 6-4, 6-2. The Washington team, composed of Captain Gustafson and Weinstock, annexed the doubles contest 6-2, 6-2.

Five Bears then journeyed to Lincoln, Nebraska for the annual Missouri Valley tennis tournament on May 21 and 22. Although Washington did not win any of the titles, they made a very creditable showing by sharing honors with rival netmen from Oklahoma and Kansas. Sigoloff smashed his way into the final round by clean-cut triumphs over three opponents, only to be downed by Royer of Oklahoma. Royer, by virtue of his victory became the Valley singles champion, while Sigoloff was runner-up. Weinstock played remarkably well and reached the semi-finals before he was eliminated. Sidney Smith was defeated in the third round, while Captain Gustafson, considerably off his game, fell by the wayside in his first round match. In the doubles, the Gustafson-Weinstock and Sigoloff-Clifford combinations met defeat in their first round encounters at the hands of the University of Kansas and Grinnell entries.

EILERS, Coach

Washington opened the 1927 swimming season on January 7 in the annual meet with the Illini tank squad at Urbana. Although failing to emerge victorious the Bears featured some sensational swimming, taking as many firsts as their opponents as well as breaking two existing records of the University of Illinois. The strength of the Illini team was evidenced by the fact that their second and third string men were superior to the Washington understudies. The final score stood at 42 to 27. Special mention should be made of the stellar performance of Heideman, star of last year's freshman squad, who lowered the 150 yard back stroke record of the University of Illinois by four seconds. In the medley relay the Bear team, composed of Heideman, McArdle, and Ledbetter, cut almost six seconds off the old Illini record. Both McArdle and Captain Baer captured a first in the 220 yard breast stroke and the 440 yard free style, respectively.

The Bears met their first Valley Conference team February 19 at Ames, Iowa, defeating the latter by a score of 51 to 18. Showing the form which has characterized the Washington championship tank teams for the past four years, they completely walked away with the meet, winning seven out of eight possible firsts and the majority of the seconds and thirds. Heideman again starred in the 150 yard back stroke, lowering by three seconds the Valley mark set by Captain Baer last year. The relay team, composed of Heideman, Brenner, and Ledbetter, set the Valley mark back by five seconds in the 300 yard medley relay. Captain Baer won the 100 and the 440 yard free style events, and with Moffett, Meyer, and Ledbetter won the 200 yard relay. Dyke Meyer won the 50 yard free style.

The swimming season was brought to a triumphant close by the Bears winning their fifth straight Valley Conference title at Ames, Iowa, March 12. Washington won eight out of nine possible firsts and Heideman lowered the Valley record, which he had just recently broken in the dual meet with Ames, by four seconds. The valley record in the 150 yard back stroke now stands seven seconds below last year's mark. The final score of the meet was: Washington 60; Iowa State 25; Drake 22; Grinnell 9 and Kansas 1. Dyke Meyer won the 40 yard dash and Calvin Ledbetter won the 100 yard free style event. Captain Baer won both the 220 and the 440 yard free style events, and with Meyer, Ledbetter, and Gilbert won the 160 yard relay. Another Bear team, composed of Gilbert, Heideman, and McArdle won the medley relay.

THE WESTERN A. A. U. MEET

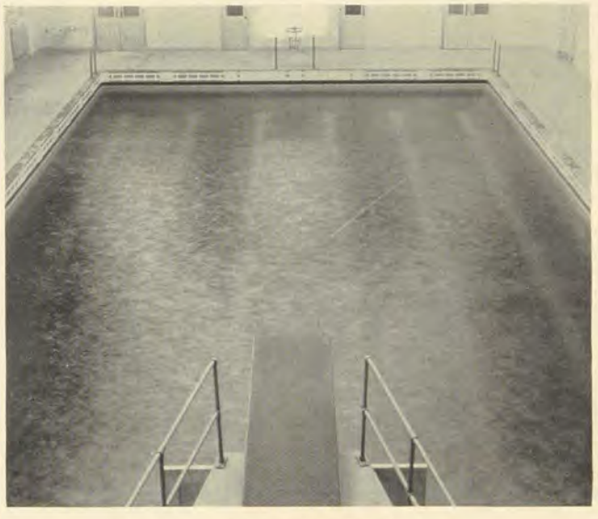

The excellent showing made by the Bear paddlers in their last appearance of the season, the Western A. A. U. Meet, was indicative of the class which the squad has shown throughout the year. Led by Heideman who established new marks in the 300 yard swim and the 150 yard backstroke, the Bear swimmers placed in five events, broke three records, and amassed a total of 22 points.

The relay team composed of Baer, Ledbetter, Cohn, and Newman, took second place in the meet. Roland Baer, the Washington captain, led off with a third in the 100 yard free style. In what was probably the fastest and most interesting race of the Meet, Heideman tied for first in the 300 yard swim, both men breaking the previous record. In the 200 yard breast stroke, McArdle beat out his team mate, Baer, who was second, to set a new record and take first place. Heideman established his second record of the evening in winning the 150 yard backstroke in fast time.

The Meet was perhaps the strongest showing of the Washington team during the swimming season, and afforded a fitting finish for one of the strongest tank squads that has ever represented Washington University.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

Beta Theta Pi won the Intramural Championship Trophy for the year 1925-1926 which was awarded at the close of the baseball season last year. Tau Kappa Epsilon placed a close second and not until the last game of the Baseball championship between these two fraternities was it determined which would win the big cup.

This year, the race is much closer if such is possible, with more organizations looming up as possible victors As the Hatchet goes to press Sigma Alpha Epsilon is leading, with Beta Theta Pi and Sigma Chi within easy striking distance. However, the returns from the spring sports have not all been reported and with the number of possible points outstanding, it may be that there will be an upset in the dope. The Tekes are not running the race that was expected of them. Perhaps the pace of the league leaders is too fast for them.

WRESTLING—WASHINGTON EXERCISE CLUB

HARTMAN MOUNTJOY HARRIS

Eleven individual sport trophies were awarded this year, by the time the Hatchet went to press. In the early fall activities Chi Delta Phi won the round-robin series of Playground Ball over a field of sixteen entries.

Beta Theta Pi, flashing a well oiled passing attack, swept through all competition to capture the second Intramural Speedball meet held at Washington. The increased list of entries for this sport on the campus bespeaks the popularity of this new game which is virtually a combination of the features of basketball and soccer.

The Civil Engineers won the boxing tourney. Interest in this sport lagged considerably this year as the entry list for it was smaller than it has been for a long time. The Washington Exercise Club, represented by Hartman, Mountjoy, and Harris captured the Wrestling trophy.

The fall Golf Trophy was taken by Kappa Alpha in a straight elimination contest over a field of sixteen teams, the largest golf entry list in the history of Pan-Hellenic or Intramural Athletics. McCoy, Datz, and Stribling comprised the K. A. team.

Their highly touted offense and stone wall defense was barely able to withstand the basko-football combination of Kappa Sigma who very reluctantly yielded to the Sigma Chi Champions. WOMEN COACHES

Miss Bertha A. Bennett, Miss Lucille B. Osborne, and Miss Esther V. Porter have proven themselves to be three of the finest Women's Physical Directors Washington University has had. Under their leadership remarkable strides have been made in the advancement of women's athletic activities.

Miss Bennett, the head of the department, is a member of the American Association of College Physical Directors, the American Physical Education Association, and the Women's Division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation. She has been here three years, coming from Carleton College. Miss Bennett teaches soccer, dancing, and correctives.

Miss Bennett had charge of the 1927 May Fete. The production was "The Birthday of the Infanta", an adaptation of a story by Oscar Wilde. A hundred and sixty girls took part in the various dancing and speaking parts.

Miss Osborne, assistant director, is also a member of the American Physical Association. Miss Osborne is a graduate of the University of Illinois and Columbia University. She has ably demonstrated her proficiency in swimming, basketball, tennis, and baseball. It is mainly through her endeavor that swimming has become increasingly popular.

Miss Porter, assistant director, is a graduate of Teacher's College of Columbia University. She, too, is a member of the American Physical Education Association. Miss Porter specializes in hockey, volleyball, clogging, and track. She has been a decided asset to the department through her enthusiasm and endeavor.

The Women's Athletic Department in the last two years has adopted a new policy which has become increasingly popular, that of sponsoring intramural sports. Last year nine baseball teams competed for the silver baseball cup, and this year eleven basketball teams played for the basketball trophy.

Miss Bennett, Miss Osborne, and Miss Porter have displayed great interest and cooperation in the Women's Building. They are all honorary members of Peppers.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

Basketball has held an important position as one of the major sports for women at Washington University since the development of women's athletics. Within the last few years intramural basketball has been added to the regular inter-class contests and has aroused additional interest in the sport.

The inter-class games increased in enthusiasm this year as they were more strongly contested than usual and showed greater equality in the ability of the teams. The championship was won by the Seniors who played exceptional basketball throughout the various contests. The outstanding players of the team were Eugenia Hart, center, Madeleine Closs, guard, and Claudine Fay, forward. These three girls have been outstanding athletes throughout their college career.

The intramural tournament has attracted almost as much attention as the inter-class contests. All women's social groups on the campus compete yearly in this tournament. For two successive years the intramural basketball cup has been won by the members of Delta Delta Delta. These girls as a group have shown superior ability in the basketball field.

Basketball is preceded only by hockey in its popularity among the University women.

CHAMPIONSHIP TEAMS

For two successive seasons Delta Delta Delta has won the intramural basketball cup placed in competition by W. A. A. A third victory will make the cup their permanent possession. In the spring of 1926 Tri Delt, at that time Rachivall, won over Kappa Alpha Theta with a score of 49-48. This spring they scored a second triumph over Theta to the score of 31-30. Ten teams were entered in this contest this year.

The baseball trophy cup was awarded in the spring of 1926 to Pi Beta Phi, when they defeated Modemar in the final match with a score of 15-11.

"W" WOMEN

To win a "W" is the ambition of practically every co-ed at Washington University. However, many of those who enter college as freshmen, eager to win their letter, find the way not as easy as it seems and hence, only a few of the most persistent are winners of the prized emblem. The "W" is given to junior and senior girls who earn 1,000 points by participating in the various sports. Points are credited to a girl's record for membership on any of the class teams according to a definite schedule which classifies the sports as major or minor. A girl may not participate in more than three major sports and five minor sports a year.

Hockey, basketball, soccer, volleyball, baseball, track and swimming are classified as major sports and a girl on any one of these teams receives 100 points. The minor sports include tennis, dancing, rowing, canoeing and hiking. From 25 to 75 points are given for activity in one of these. Out of the total 1,000 points received, the "W" women must have earned 700 in competitive sports and 300 in other athletic activities. So it is easily seen why the athletic "W" is worn by so few women on the campus. Those who have received their emblem are: Mary Helen Bartlett, Madeleine Closs, Dorothea Comfort, Sibley Merton, Olga Nooter, Ruth Pilcher and Leona Yerger.

THE 1928 HATCHET

It has been the desire of this year's staff to build a Hatchet that would breathe the spirit of Washington University; an annual that would at once both illustrate the progress of the University so rich in historical interest and at the same time portray the fascinating campus life as we know it. With this aim in view, the theme of the 1928 Hatchet was chosen as "Seventy Five Years of Progress of Washington University". Surely three generations of continual growth furnish an adequate background against which to compare and contrast present day undergraduate activity with past scenes and customs.

As part of the program to make the Hatchet most representative of Washington University in its various aspects, it was decided that professional art work and design would be discarded in favor of a student staff of capable artists. The result can compare favorably with the art work of the leading annuals of the country, the entire design and execution of the art theme being done by students of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, a department of Washington University, working under the direction of the art editor. The paintings for the division pages and the design of the opening pages are as accurate as good technique will permit, the former representing scenes and occasions famous in the history of the University, the latter illustrating campus architecture and the little Tudor Gothic grotesques which are found in such profusion on the older buildings.

The editorial policy of the book has been based on the assumption that pictures are a more enduring record than mere mention of the occurrence. While the photography has been uniformly good, some of the pictures are slightly indistinct, a condition which is due to the unusual circumstances under which the photographs were made. The most modern equipment possible has enabled us to secure indoor pictures at night, an accomplishment heretofore impossible.

The staff regrets that lack of student cooperation has made a larger circulation impossible. We feel sure that the business policy of independence of any organizational support is a necessary step toward efficient annual management. We are disappointed in the slow response accorded the circulation campaign. Hatchets should be bought, not sold. However, now that the Hatchet has firmly established an independent policy as regards its business management, we hope that better support will be accorded the succeeding staff by the student body.

DEBATING

WILBUR S. HOWELL
Debating Coach

Washington University undertook during the past year the most ambitious debating schedule in its history. Among the outstanding clashes were a series of three international debates with the University of Sydney, Australia, and Oxford and Cambridge Universities of England. Washington University had the unique position of being the only institution in the United States to meet all three of these foreign schools.

The University of Sydney, represented by Sydney H. Heathwood, Dr. John R. Goodsall, and Noel D. McIntosh, all prominent graduates of the Australian institution, debated Washington according to the split-team method on November 5. Robert E. Rosenwald and Aytchmonde Stone of Washington, together with Dr. Goodsall of Sydney, took the affirmative side of the question, "Has Democracy Failed". George Dyer of Washington went over to the Australian team. A large audience in Graham Memorial chapel rendered a verdict in favor of the success of democracy.

Steuart Britt, Abraham E. Margolin, and Edward Stimson upheld the affirmative side of the proposition, "This House Favors the Principle of Prohibition", against a distinguished team from Oxford University on December 2. Gyles Isham, Patrick Monkhouse, and Michael A. E. Franklin, all of whom have a long record of worthy accomplishments, represented the English institution. This debate was unique in that speakers of both the affirmative and negative gave their individual opinions of the question. Washington was the victor by a popular decision.

THE CAMBRIDGE DEBATERS; DR. LIPPINCOTT; THE W. U. TEAM

On December 18, Washington debated Cambridge University on the subject, "This House Regrets the Large Part that Advertising Plays in Modern Life". Robert Rosenwald and George Dyer of Washington, upholding the negative, lost the decision to the Cambridge team of Hugh G. Herklots and Wilfred G. Fordham.

The debate with Minnesota University on December 9 was held in Minneapolis before a large crowd. The Washington team of Merle Fainsod and Clifford Greve, upholding the negative side of the question, "Resolved, that the United States should Cancel all War Debts Due from the Allies on Account of the World War", won a unanimous decision.

In the annual dual contest with Missouri University, George Dyer and Orville Richardson, journeyed to Columbia on March 14 to debate the question, "Resolved, that the Benefits Derived from Intercollegiate Athletics Outweigh the Evils". Herman Levin and Sol Shmookler debated the Missouri University freshmen in St. Louis on the opposite side of the same question.

Aytchmonde Stone, Clifford Greve, and Charles Wager represented Washington in the debate with St. Louis University on April 1. "Movie Censorship" was the topic of discussion in this forensic clash, the first meeting between the two institutions in several years.

The annual contest of the Missouri Valley Oratorical Association was held in Graham Memorial Chapel on March 17. Charles Dillon, who also represented Washington the previous year, spoke on the "Crime Situation and Crime Enforcement in Missouri", winning second place and a prize of twenty-five dollars.

SCENES FROM "ARMS AND THE MAN" BY SHAW

COED VODVIL

Mortar Board's annual presentation of Coed Vodvil December 11 at Mary Institute Auditorium was again a huge success. The fair coeds fully demonstrated their ability and charm. Talent seemed remarkably well divided among the seven sororities.

Kappa Alpha Theta presented a charming skit representing a group of young men who believed that women did not choose their husbands. One of their number, who had toured the country, narrated musically the various experiences met with over the nation.

Kappa Kappa Gamma had a "bald-headed row" presentation of a burlesque show. "Big Ben", the old rounder, described his experiences at the show, and later presented his gold-miners, and his mural painting; rounding out the whole with an ensemble.

Phi Mu's presentation of "Nifty Nuts" featured fantastic costumes and farce. The scene represented Dr. I. Cura Nutt's Asylum, to which various patients came or went. Victims of the dancing craze displayed their woes entertainingly.

Delta Gamma's "5873 Reasons" had quite a bit of clever repartee in the way of titles of popular songs. Fair dancing and good costuming helped to put it across.

Gamma Phi Beta gave a rearrangement of some portions of "Irene" in a form quite pleasing to eye and ear. The solo dancing was easily the feature of the act.

Pi Beta Phi revised Mother Goose and pointed out what would have happened if Jack and Jill had charlestoned up the hill.

Alpha Chi Omega's version of Carmen, entitled "Chile Land", put a happy ending to the romance of Carmen and Ginger Ale—that is, they were married. Costumes and dialogue made the sketch successful.

PRALMA VODVIL

A serious melodrama of unusual character, entitled "One Granada Night" won the Pralma Vodvil Cup for Kappa Alpha over five other acts presented at Mary Institute Auditorium March 18 and 19. The judges were Mrs. Kathleen Hammond, Professor Frank M. Webster and Mr. William Parsons. Melvin Maginn's dramatic interpretation of the plot was an outstanding feature of "One Granada Night". Gilbert Moore gave some excellent part songs and Lyman Hoshell, impersonating a Spanish senorita was the best danseuse of the evening. The act was written by Howard Kaho, Fullerton Willhite, and Theodore Granberry. It concerned an American, held captive by banditti in the wilds of Granada, who attempted to escape with Amada, the Spanish girl. The arrival of a government officer and the release of the American brought the act to a fitting close.

The Phi Delt Phollies Company, presented a burlesque entitled "The Broken Leg", with a big cast. Individual honors were shared by Billy Lund and Carleton Hadley.

Sigma Nu presented a farce, "There Aint No Justice", with Jack Burkhardt as the chief comedian and Ernie Bashford as Mr. Completely, the goat. This slapstick act, written by Bob Parman, portrayed the proceedings in a divorce court.

Psi Delta's presentation with its ghost chorus and vulgar boatswains was also very good. It was the story of the love of Percival, who had a whole bare-footed harem, and Nellie, who had been married some five times to date.

"Idyl Love", offered by Alpha Tau Omega, was written by Douglas Gibson. It started out with a pirate chorus composed of a bandit, a rogue, a vagabond, and a brigand, that was really good. Art Hannibal was clever with his gags and Douglas Gibson was a handsome captain finally successful in his affairs of heart.

The last act, "Inn Here", given by Beta Theta Pi, starred Carl Fox in the guise of Sam, the porter.

THYRSUS ACTIVITIES

"Aren't We All," the brilliant and sophisticated comedy by Frederick Lonsdale was presented at the American Theatre April 10, 1926 as the annual Thyrsus production. The cast kept the gleaming bubble of wit afloat throughout this airy comedy of the English drawing room and dealt with the situations with a light and skillful touch. In heavier, more awkward hands the play would have been distressing. As put on by Thyrsus, it was most amusing and delightful.

The play itself centered around the efforts of Lord Grenham to bring about a reconciliation between his son and his daughter-in-law who had discovered her errant husband in the arms of a beautiful actress. The denouement was both interesting and novel. The insulted wife was surprised in a similar situation, husband and wife agreed to cry quits, and all ended happily as a comedy should.

Clark Clifford had the difficult role of Lord Grenham, but he made the most of the part and showed quite a flair for comedy. Eloise Frazier was delightful as Lady Fritton. Virginia Becker and Fullerton Willhite, as Margaret and Willie Tatham, played opposite each other with intelligence and vivacity. The minor roles were capably handled by Curt Gallenkamp, Gus Crawford, Krauter, Vierling, Donald McClure, Richard Miler, Charlotte Ewing, and Sarah Selby.

During the school year Thyrsus not only presents the annual but also two groups of one-act plays. This year the first group was staged in January Court Room December 3 and 4. An innovation which was well received was the replacement of lavish and cumbersome settings with much simpler ones.

As is customary three plays were put on. The first of these was "The Step-mother" by Arnold Bennett. Sarah Selby had the role of a woman-novelist who wrote learnedly of medicine, of which she knew nothing. For this she is soundly criticized. Her step-son, played by Donald McClure, falls in love with her secretary, played by Genevieve McNellis. Finally all difficulties are ironed out when the novelist decides to marry a doctor, acted by Robert Blauner.

The second play, "Trifles" by Susan Gaspell was a tragedy, a thing which seemed to puzzle an audience still under the influence of the merry comedy. The frozen calmness of Mary Jane Carrier in the role of the wife of the murdered farmer, and the interpretation of the role of the sheriff's wife by Katherine Hinchey were excellent. Jack Burkhardt as the sheriff, Lawrence Goldman as the county attorney, and Charles Duncan as a neighboring farmer dealt ably with their parts.

The last play of the group was "Stuffing" by George Preston. In this hilarious comedy, Melvin Maginn was the thoughtless cockney cabby, and Louise Livers his sensitive wife whose birthday he forgets. Charles Judge and Katherine Hafner completed the cast.

The second series of one act plays was presented March 11 and 12. The first of these was "Evening Dress Indispensable", a most amusing comedy in which the daughter, Nancy Moore, a modernist and an intellectual with a "Russian soul" is aroused out of her apathy by her still charming mother, played by Helen Brod, her mother's old sweetheart, Alan Fraser, and Harry Jolly, who is in love with her in spite of her fearsome intellectuality.

The second of these, "Catherine Parr" by Maurice Baring swung the audience back several centuries into the time of Henry VIII. Virginia Becker made a charming and witty Catherine, and Melvin Maginn a jolly Henry. The long discussions were most amusing and it was obvious that in Catherine, Henry had met his match. The play was coached by Mrs. W. R. Mackenzie.

Last of all was "Enter the Hero" which seemed to delight the audience. Carol Crowe as the heroine pretends to have a violent love affair with a man from her town who is in South America, and displays impassioned letters to prove it. With the return of the man, Gilbert Moore, the young lady has some very intricate problems to solve, especially since he is not in love with her at all.

AS YOU LIKE IT

The presentation of "As You Like It," on May 18, 1926, Liggett Terrace, marked a successful and brilliant revival of the annual Shakespearean performance. This delightful sylvan comedy was characterized by acting, singing, and dancing which had the finished touch of the professional. The natural setting of Liggett Terrace was augmented by a few artificial props from the Municipal Theatre, so that the setting was complete in every respect.

The individual performances were of such a high type that it is difficult to pick out the particularly bright stars. Miss Harriet Moore as Rosalind probably carried off first honors. The parts of Celia, melancholy Jacques, and Touchstone, as well as all the others, were rendered with finish that far transcended the average amateur efforts. Harriett Moore, Melvin Maginn, and Charles Dillon, who were cast as Rosalind, Orlando, and Jacques, respectively, were coached privately by E. H. Sothern during his stay in St. Louis. The performance was remarkable in that with one exception no experienced actors from the previous year had been inherited as material for this production. It is this fact, more than any other, which makes the work of the coaches—Dr. Mackenzie, Mrs. Mackenzie, and Prof. Webster—exceptionally outstanding. The play showed expert editing; boresome speeches were expurgated, yet all the essential action was present.

One of the best features of the play was the dancing, which was coached by Miss Bennett, Miss Sanguinet, and Miss Porter. The five delightful interludes gave an added aesthetic touch to the production and met with great success from the audience. Along with the dances was excellent singing from both the Men's and Girl's Choruses. This marked the initial appearance of a men's chorus in the Shakespearean plays at Washington.

On the whole, the performance was successful both from a financial and histrionic standpoint. It marked a great achievement for the Shakespearean Association of Washington University and its revival firmly established the popularity of this type of play.

MAY DAY

This year's May fete, the annual presentation of the Women's Athletic Department, will be held on May 10 in McMillan Court. The plot of the production is taken from Oscar Wilde's story "The Birthday of the Infanta". The first scene opens when the gardeners come in to prepare their Garden for the celebration of the Infanta's twelfth birthday. They perform their duties merrily and dance while working. As they water the flowers a chorus of butterflies flit in and out of the bushes, their dancing adding greatly to the attractiveness of the scene. Later, the Infanta comes out into the Garden under the care of the Duchess of Albuquerque, who has planned the celebration for her. The Infanta is very much surprised when the gypsies, tumblers and other dancers come out to entertain her. But the unusual and most delightful surprise is the appearance of a little grotesque, a hunchback of about fourteen years of age, who is brought in from the woods to dance.

After his performance the hunchback wanders through the palace and finally comes into a room with a large mirror. He sees himself for the first time of his life in this glass and when he discovers his homeliness he dies of a broken heart. The Infanta finds him lying dead on the floor and her interest in him turns to love. She, therefore, calls in the birds of the forest to use their supernatural powers to restore him to life in the form of a handsome prince. Then follows the betrothal of the two and the gay wedding dance, making an appropriate ending for such a fanciful theme.

May day is always enjoyed by the students of the college and the celebration this year will be one of the best ever given. The dances are clever and attractive; the actors are well-trained; the costumes are appropriately designed and the effect of the blending of the colors is quite appealing. Misses Bertha A. Bennett and Esther V. Porter, professors of physical education have charge of the production. Miss Eloise Frazier is coaching the speaking parts and Miss Margaret Breen is designing the costumes. The part of the Infanta will be portrayed by Willma Schwindeler; Belle Grosby will act as Fantastic, the little grotesque, and the Duchess of Albuquerque will be Dorothy Brandenberger. Other important roles will be interpreted by Eleanor Henning, Frances Harman, Jaquelin Ambler and Carol Crowe.

"THE RIDDLE OF ISIS"

The annual Women's Glee Club program, consisting of musical numbers and an operetta, was presented at the Mary Institute auditorium on April 21, 1927. The first part of the program was devoted to piano selections by Miss Edith Gordon, songs by Ruth Hafner, and six numbers by the Glee Club ensemble.

The operetta, "The Riddle of Isis", had its setting in Egypt among the pyramids. Madame Pinker and her Seminary girls, viewing the famous ruins by moonlight, are interrupted by as many fiery Bedouins as there are young ladies. The Sheikhs are really young Americans touring Egypt. When Reginald, an eminent Egyptologist, decides to try his invention for reviving mummies on Isis and Ramesis II, Madame Pinker, who has conceived a passion for the long-dead Ramesis, urges him on. The experiment successful, Reginald himself falls in love with Isis. The youthful Americans have long since paired up. Isis informs her Egyptologist that she will be his if he answer at midnight the riddle she will propound to him. When the answer book of Ramesis on which Reginald relied for the solution is stolen, overwhelmed he pulls out his watch at the stroke of the hour and shouts "Time!" which turns out to be the correct answer.

The leading roles were taken by Helen MacFarland as Isis, George Dyer as Reginald, Don Weddell as Ramesis II, and Louise Liver as Madame Pinker. Carol Boedecker, Robert Black, Lester Abbott, Overton Fry, Vera Shane, and Ervilla Hix handled the minor roles. The chorus was good and the dancing of the pony ballet, clever.

QUADRANGLE CLUB CONCERT

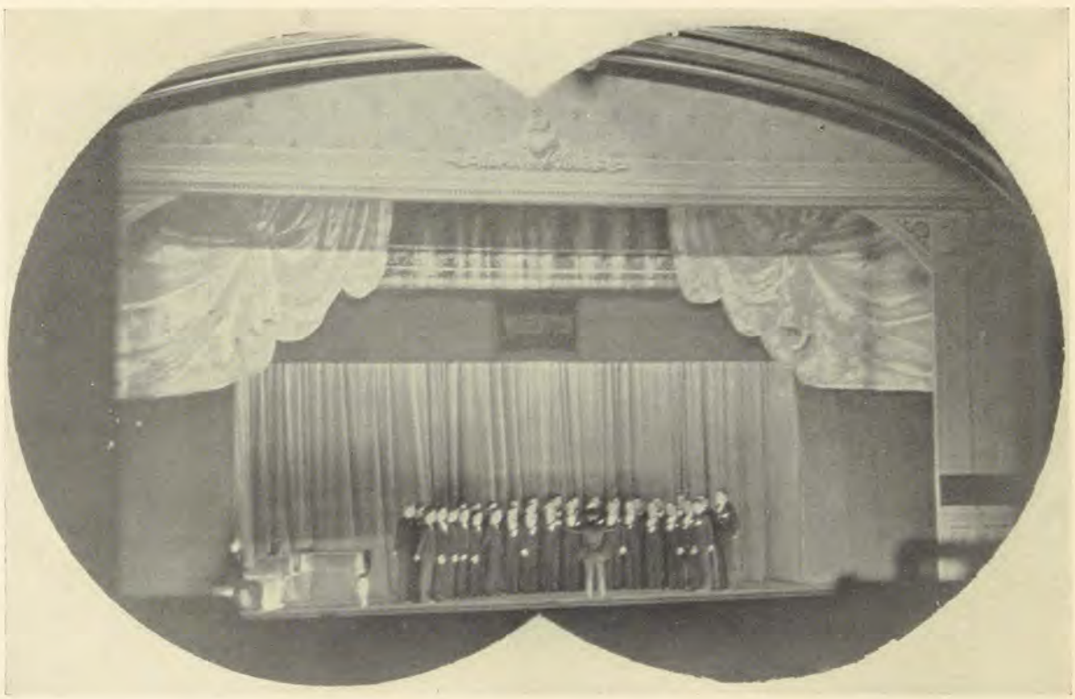

In the annual concert at the Odeon Theatre, the Quadrangle Club presented on February 4th, one of the most interesting and polished performances of recent years. A number of innovations, the piano solos of Ted Williams who played a number of his own compositions, the work of the newly organized orchestra, together with a well selected list of songs, made the program by far the most ambitious that has yet been attempted by the club. Great credit must be given Mr. William A. Parsons whose work as Director of the Club did much to make the concert a success.

The program was opened by two very spirited songs sung by the entire Glee Club, "The Builder" by Cadman and "The Song of the Vagabonds" by Friml. The work of the men showed a high degree of skill and seemed superior to the singing of the past two years. This condition may be traced to a greater interest in the club among the students and to a more careful selection of the club members. The other three numbers sung by the whole chorus were two negro spirituals which were well applauded and "Oh Peaceful Night" which was perhaps the most effective of all the numbers.

Ted Williams was the individual attraction of the evening. Ted played some numbers from the Musical Comedy, "Rosita", and two compositions of his own. He has also written a new varsity march song, "Fight, Washington, Fight" which was taught to the audience at the end of the program after a preliminary rendition by the Glee Club.

The work of both the varsity quartet and the revised Kwadrangle Klub Komedy Kwartet was much applauded. The voices of the varsity men individually did not come up to the standard of last year, but the numbers that were sung were very enjoyable. Schmidt, Thompson, Hyndman, and Weddell comprised the quartet while Fry, Willhite, Hoshall, and Cunliff were the four Klowns of the Komedy Kwartet. It is still a matter of conjecture when the program of the annual concert will be purged of such light stuff which really has its place on the Vodvil circuit. A definite step was taken this year with the introduction of the orchestral pieces and the piano solos and it is hoped that the Glee Club next year will be able to entertain its audience without recourse to a specialty quartet.

Robert Hyndman who succeeded Golterman as soloist acknowledged the applause to his two numbers with an encore that was familiar to all, "The Road to Mandalay". The orchestra under the direction of Bobby Herr warmed up to the occasion and proved to be the most popular portion of the program.

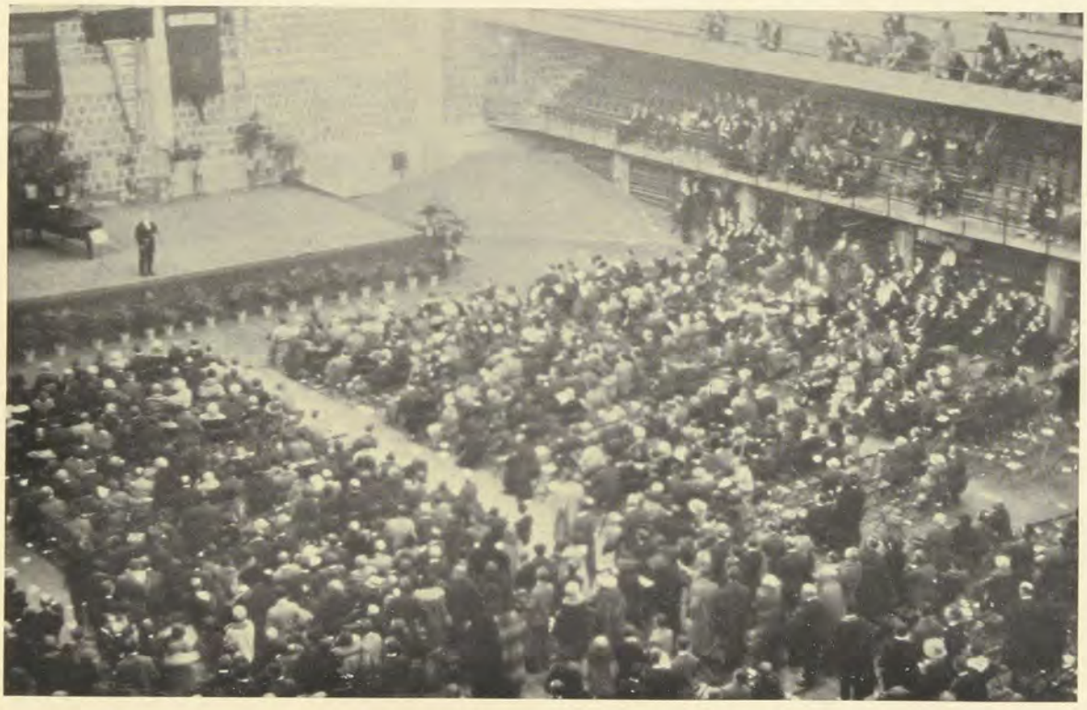

MISSOURI VALLEY GLEE CLUB CONTEST

The annual Missouri Valley Intercollegiate Glee Club Contest was held at the Washington University Field House, February 4, 1927. The clubs participating in the contest were: University of Kansas, Kansas State Agricultural College, Kansas State Teacher's College, Oklahoma A. and M. College, University of Oklahoma, University of Arkansas, Westminster College, Iowa State College, University of Missouri, and Washington University. The judges were Rossiter Cole, Peter Lutkin, and Edgar Nelson, all of whom are well-known musicians. The winner was the University of Missouri: the University of Kansas was second, and Washington University, third, the judging being based on each club's rendition of the "prize" song.

The program as presented by these ten clubs was both lengthy and varied, since each group sang three numbers, besides the three ensemble numbers by the combined clubs in a grand chorus of three hundred voices. The order of appearance for the "choice" song, the "prize" song, and the "College" song, was determined by a drawing. This selection was made by Rudolph Ganz, conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, Miss Forrestine Wilson, President of the Woman's Council, and Prof. E. B. Conant of the School of Law, Vice-President of the Intercollegiate Glee Club Association.

The prize song which was sung by each club, was a beautiful number by Schumann, entitled, "The Lotus Flower". After it had been sung ten times, this song was presented a final time by the grand chorus of all the glee clubs, and was conducted by Peter Lutkin, who was formerly in charge of the children's chorus of the annual Evansville Festival.

Efforts are being made to stage the annual contest at the Field House again next year, and to make Washington University its permanent location.

Announcing Mizzou as Winner of the Valley Glee Club Contest

"ROSITA"

The lightning flashed above the Spanish Pyrenees and as we instinctively clutched our absent umbrellas, Marian Epstein began telling Rosita that her future was linked with that of a handsome young American. "Just like a musical comedy". The remainder of the plot of Rosita was devoted to furthering, fostering, complicating and completing the prophesied romance. Song, jest, and dialogue carried the slender thread of romance to the happy ending when Clark Clifford realized his undying affection for Sarah Selby who was the entrancing senorita, Rosita. This startling denouement required a song, assent, dissent, and consent, not to mention three tender embraces, before the audience would cease applauding.

The very amusing musical comedy, "Rosita" was the result of patient labor on the part of Ted Williams who wrote the lyrics for the entire play and who directed the musical numbers from the orchestra pit. Carleton Hadley and Milton Monroe deserve equal credit for their work as co-authors of the libretto and assistance in staging the production. An enthusiastic audience greeted the cast on the nights of April 7 and 8 at the American Theatre where Rosita was presented. The title role was well portrayed by Sarah Selby and the part of Jim was handled by Clark Clifford whose experience, in dramatics of course, enabled him to give the part the interpretation that it deserved. The remainder of the principals were Jean Bronenkamp whose work was especially outstanding, Melvin Maginn and Harold Elbert who injected the needed comedy, Robert Hyndman, Fullerton Willhite, Dorothy Ladd, Carol Crowe, Jane Shaffer, Marian Epstein, Carleton Hadley, Alan Fraser, Ronald Elkins, and A. William Morris. Supporting the principals were two choruses and a snappy pony ballet, soldiers, entertainers and Arthur Woerheide, whose arrival allowed matters to be settled satisfactorily and the curtain to fall upon a stirring chorus sung by the ensemble.

The comedy as a whole was characterized by good songs, a continuity of action, and by a diversity of characters. The costumes were especially designed by Margaret Breen to harmonize with the scenery and the lighting effects. William Lincoln and George Senseney designed the scenery and were rewarded by the title of technical directors. The best musical numbers were "Rosita" sung by Clifford, "When I'm Away from You" and "Everybody Else" sung by Hyndman and Jean Bronenkamp respectively. For any other information about the show, see the program or Student Life. We recommend the program.

In contrast to the musical comedy of last year, Rosita showed a finish and smoothness that would compare well with the professional stage. Robert Kissack of the English Department is responsible for the dramatic direction of the play and a large measure of credit is due him for his efforts and skill. Both performances went off without a noticeable hitch or missed cue. In all, about two thousand students, alumni, and parents saw the show. Wilford Zinsmeyer, production manager, and Robert Bassett, ticket manager, have stated the comedy would be a slight financial success though at this time, final figures are not available for publication.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming, November 29 and 30, opened with a mass meeting in the Field House. About fifteen hundred grads and undergrads were there to generate their pep for the morrow's game. The Band played, the Peppers and Wreckers paraded and cheered and Coach Higgins made a short talk. While the night was yet young, the crowd adjourned to the bonfire before the gates of Francis Field and listened to an address given by Chancellor Hadley while the freshman tended the fire and prepared for their shirt-tail parade down to Grand Ave.

HOMECOMING

On Saturday came the big automobile parade. About three hundred machines, led by three double-decked busses, advertised to the city that the Bears were going to claw up the Oklahoma Sooners. The failure of this ambitious plan by a narrow margin of points could not damp the spirits of the large crowd that attended the game.

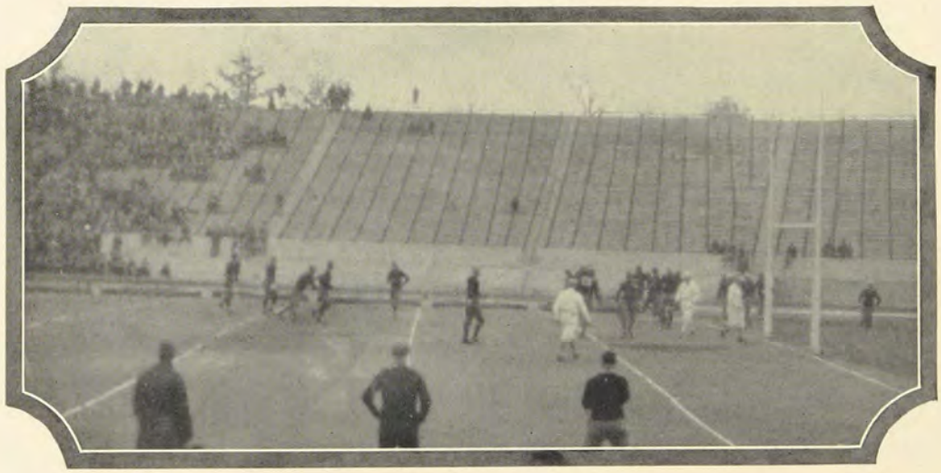

MIZZOU TRIP

Nearly a thousand enthusiasts traveled to Columbia to see the erstwhile annual Bear-Tiger melee. The Special left the Delmar station in the early afternoon and arrived at Columbia in time for supper. The Wreckers had Whitey up in the baggage car. Subsequent events proved it would have been safer to leave the little bear behind for shortly after supper Saturday night, some Mizzou boys swiped Whitey from the freight depot and spilled some yellow paint on his back.

MIZZOU TRIP

Although Whitey's disgrace was deep at Columbia, his revenge was very sweet two weeks later. One morning the student body came to school and found the tiger mascot of Missouri, daubed with red and green and with the word "Bears" painted on his sides, hanging just below the big clock from the tower of University hall. For the rest of the day Whitey was allowed to prance around the tiger triumphantly.

REBSTOCK HALL

The corner stone of the new Hall of Biology was laid Tuesday afternoon, October 12, by Mr. Charles Rebstock, the donor of the building. Mr. Rebstock has given one million dollars to the University only a portion of which was expended in the construction of the building. Chancellor Herbert S. Hadley presided at the occasion. Speeches were made by Mr. Frank Carter, a prominent St. Louis lawyer, Dr. George T. Moore, Professor of Botany, and Dr. Caswell Grave, Professor of Zoology. A sealed box, containing portraits of Mr. Rebstock, the heads of the departments of Botany and Zoology, and copies of the city newspapers, together with the addresses of the speakers and a drawing of the building, was placed in the receptacle of the corner stone.

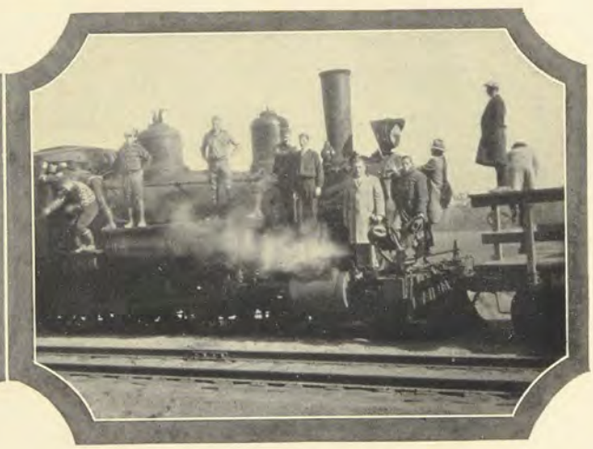

CIVIL ENGINEERING TRIP

The 1926 Civil Engineering trip was taken into the Ozark country near Cuba, Missouri. The boys spent much time in and on the Meramec river, where a government geological station is maintained. Later in the fall the Civil Engineers took an industrial trip on the Missouri Pacific to inspect bridge and track construction work between St. Louis and Jefferson City.

ART SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

The knock-out "patent leather chorus" shown at the top is part of the cast of the annual song and dance given by the new members of the Art School Association to the advanced students. The remainder of the photos show scenes from the Oriental Bazaar held in the new Bixby Hall early in December. The bazaar was both profitable and successful.

The shiek in the lower left really isn't as black as he is painted. The young Rodoloph didn't realize red rouge photographed black.

SAINT FATIMA'S DAY

Saint Fatima, the patron saint of the architects, led an elaborate procession of costumed architects across the main quadrangle and through the archway to the bottom of the steps of University Hall. The Saint himself then appeared in what was supposed to be chariot and what was recognized to be a cheap car of ancient vintage. After a highly interpretative, and a bit suggestive, dance by the girls of his harem, Fatima forgot himself and released the senior architects from their chains of bondage. Highly symbolic.

DRAMATICS

The pictures directly above are scenes from the Thyrsus annual, "Aren't We All". You can just tell the extent of Clifford's bored tolerance by his expression.

The other snaps are action photos of the Shakspearean drama, "As You Like It". Mel Maginn seems to get quite a kick out of Bechtell's entreaties. He doesn't know how funny he looks. Gallenkamp is right in his element as the fool, Touchstone.

DRAMATICS

The upper left is from the alumni play, "The Romantic Age", which was staged on the main quad during commencement week.

At the right of the page are scenes from the Thyrsus One Act Plays. Don's a lucky chap. We wonder what Ches Waterous is doing hiding behind the lamp in such a peculiar position. Our guess is that he's counting the paid admissions out in the audience.

At the bottom is shown the cast of the Little Theatre presentation, "Arms and The Man" written by Bernard Shaw. Willma Schwindeler seems to have no appeal for Atchymonde P. Stone. Other characters are Locatell, Epstein, Bahn, Newman and Gruner.

CO-ED VODVIL

The eighth annual coed vodvil was another success. Honors of the program must be given to Theta, Kappa, and Phi Mu. The three bears shown at the left cost the Pi Phi act, "Mammy Goose" a favorable mention. The large group just beneath is the supporting cast. Alpha Chi Omega's "Chili Land" depended too much on dialogue and with the two exceptions of Helen MacFarland and Jean Lebens, their choruses were adequately costumed. The Delta Gamma skit, "5873 Reasons" was alright only we couldn't count that many. We wonder where they got that title. Gamma Phi's presentation, "The Garden Girl" was excellent mediocrity.

CO-ED VODVIL

Gene McNellis and Dorothy Ladd seem to be shocked about something but Claire says the camera is mistaken. Big Ben, in the middle, sure has a lot on his hands. This picture and the one below it were spicy choruses from the Kappa presentation, "Big Ben's Burlesque Show". The old fashioned chorus from the Theta Act does not indicate how well this number was received by the audience. A picture of the Hafner sisters in characteristic poses is unfortunately missing.

The bottom two photos from "Nifty Nuts" staged by Phi Mu shows the Nurses Chorus and the individual performers that were applauded so much.

PRALMA VODVIL

This crippled chorus shown in the upper left was a novelty introduced by the Betas in their farce, "Inn Here". The act was advertised as a Scandalous Skit and scandalous it was. Kissack, whose picture we thought it best to omit, was the star of the cash register. Carl Fox was just a singing nigger with ambipedextrous capabilities. As a whole the Beta Act was well received on Friday night, the "men-only" show.

The Phi Delt Phollies Company, which was so successful last year, presented a very clever musical comedy. Hadley, the admitted author of the production, was starred as an old codger who had "It" in large quantities. Their act was entitled, "The Broken Leg" with a big cast, a condition which was not apparent in the dancing of the Bell Hop chorus which was by far the best in the show. However the Scrub Lady chorus was a washout.

The Sigma Nu act, "There Ain't No Justice", was a court room farce of no especial merit. Burkhardt, Parman, and Sturbois gave good individual performances but no amount of costuming could make that chorus attractive.

PRALMA VODVIL

The Kappa Alpha act was marked by the fine acting of Maginn and Willhite. Hoshall, who impersonated a gypsy dancing girl, was the best lady of the evening. The song, "Silhouettes", sung by Willhite and Hoshall against a clever background was well received. The music in this act was all original, a fact which counted heavily in the judges' decision awarding first prize to Kappa Alpha.

The Alpha Tau Omega act, "Idyl Love", gave Art Hannibal and Douglas Gibson an opportunity to pour forth some of their disconnected dialogue. The hardest role in this act was that of the Knight's Armor, and the Bandit Chrous was the most unusual number in the entire program.

Psi Delta's act "Reunited", involved the introduction of the children and wives of the heroine and hero.

This act was marked by three different choruses: a ghost chorus, a harem chorus, and the Vulgar Boatswains. There was some especially good harmony between the soloist and the pianist, the former could not be coaxed into singing in the same key with the piano, so the accompanist quit.

SOCIETY

The Lock and Chain dances fill a definite place in the social calendar of the University. However, the photographers arrived to take this picture at nine o'clock and waited for three hours to secure enough people to fill the dancing space.

The photo and inset at the left are pictures of the Art School Ball Masque. Mr. Noel A. Grady is shown with the Art School Queen, Miss Elsa Schmedtje, and the retiring Queen, Miss Laura Hancock. It is an excellent picture of Noel's tuxedo. In the inset, is Miss Muriel Matthews, maid of honor to the queen. Miss Bankston completed the royal court.

The bottom photographs were taken at the freshman prom, a formal affair in the Francis Gymnasium, and at the sophomore party given in the same place.

THE JUNIOR PROM

The Junior Prom, the biggest event of the social season was held at the Statler on the night of March 4. Its success is due to the hard work of the committee heads, David Baer, Dorothy Lippman, Paul Harding, Mary E. Gowans, and Georgia Schoenthaler, shown in the picture in the upper left hand corner of the page. On the right, appear the principals in that exciting comedy, the crowning of the Hatchet Queen. We're glad the picture is a bit indistinct. Torrance is fortunately partly hidden by the post supporting the canopy. Just below is an action photograph taken as George Senne, president of the Junior Class crowned Alice Weber, Hatchet Queen of Love and Beauty to reign until the succeeding Junior Prom. The bottom picture shows Miss Weber seated on the throne surrounded by her maids of honor, Jeanette Lantz, Virginia Murphey, Charlotte Rossi, and Dorothy Oth Hayes. The retiring Queen, Virginia Sankey is standing just to the right of the throne.

THE UNIVERSITY

Above is a rather unusual view of the main quadrangle. The snapshot was given the Feature Editor by Dr. Bieber, Professor of History, who fearlessly climbed the heights of the chimney to make the picture.

At the left are two photographs showing the library (above) and the administration building (middle) picture of the Henry Shaw School of Botany. This department of the University is located at Shaw's Garden, one of the show places of Saint Louis, and is under the direction of Dr. George T. Moore, Professor of Botany.

At the lower left is a picture of the Dental School located at Twenty-Eighth & Locust Sts. This building is not sufficiently large to accomodate the growing number of dental students and a recent gift to the University provides for a new building to be erected soon at an approximate cost of three hundred thousand dollars.

The airplane view shows the Washington University Medical School and the affiliated hospitals. The medical school is one of the best in the country and draws its students from all over the United States. It is lamentable that there is not a closer connection between the medical school and the Hilltop schools on the Campus.

THE UNIVERSITY

At the top is shown the W. K. Bixby Hall of Fine Arts which was erected very recently and occupied last fall. The small picture is a southern view of the new Biology Building, Rebstock Hall. Classes will not be held in the new building until next fall when the present biology hall will be torn down. The destruction of this present eye-sore should greatly improve the appearance of the northern side of the campus.

At the right of the page are pictures of the Wilson Natatorium and of the Graham Memorial Chapel. The walk between the Chapel and the Gymnasium is particularly beautiful in winter time when the snow is on the ground.

The bottom photograph is the most recent aerial view of the campus. This picture was made last spring and shows the Art School completed and the work begun on the Biology Building.

MUSICAL COMEDY

Its more fun rehearsing then putting on the show. After the cast is selected in the early fall, rehearsals are begun for the chorus and the principals. The surrounding photographs show "Rosita" in its seventeenth week of progress. The pictures were made in the Old Chapel where Ted Williams, Zinsmeyer, and Hadley, did their best to glorify the Washington University Coed in what was voted the most entertaining production ever given by Washington University students.

The studio picture at the left shows Clark Clifford, Robert Hyndman, Carleton Hadley, Fullerton Willhite, Jean Bronenkamp, Sarah Selby, Carol Crowe, Dorothy Ladd, Marian Epstein and Jane Shaffer who played the major roles. The supporting cast numbered approximately fifty if we count the Pony Ballet which was a show all by itself.

A ROYAL VISIT

While the best part of the student body was away at Columbia fighting the Tiger, Queen Marie of Roumania paid a very informal call upon Washington University. The Queen was received in the Field House by Chancellor Hadley. It is reported that John Gustafson and Forrestine Wilson, representing the student body of the University, did homage to the Queen with a presentation of floral tributes.

In the upper left is shown Mayor Miller with the Queen. The Mayor is not acknowledging the cheers of the assembled multitude but is simply posing voluntarily for the Hatchet Staff photographer. The small snapshot at the right shows the engaging smile of the Princess Ileana which is conspicously absent in the picture just beneath.

The large picture of the Queen, the Princess Ileana and Prince Nicholas was obtained through the courtesy of the St. Louis Globe Democrat.

The two bottom pictures show the Washington University Glee Club as it appeared the night of the Missouri Valley Glee Club Contest. Francis P. Linneman, president of the club, conducted the singing of the three songs.

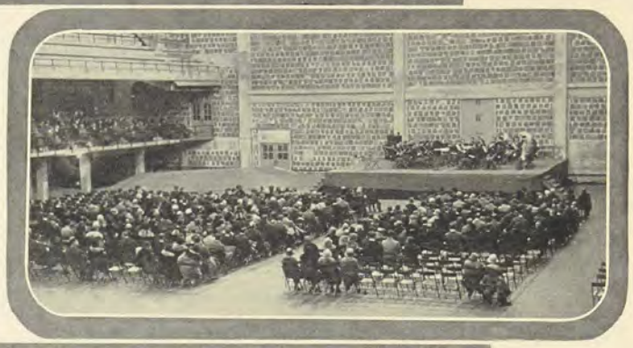

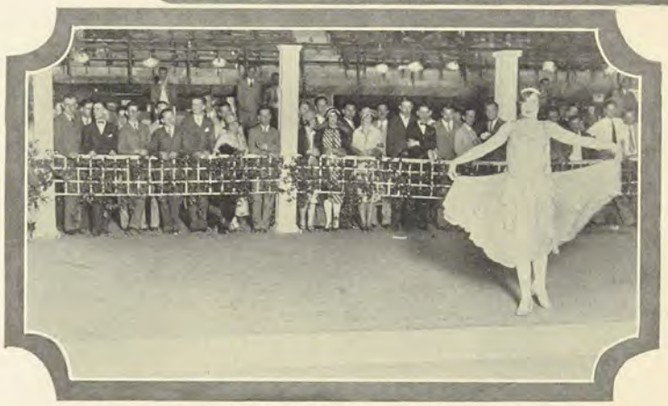

FIELD HOUSE EVENTS

When Washington University gets together, some real times are had by all. The Field House is the stamping ground for the mass meetings, basketball games, debates and all the other events that make the curriculum so difficult.

The three pictures at the top were taken at the Marine mass meeting the night before Thanksgiving.

The beautiful mannequins shown in the lower pictures are from the Pralma Fashion Show which was an added attraction at the Univee Surkuss held late in May last Spring. During the nights of the Surkuss, the Field House was lined with booths, bars, and sideshows, where the suckers were parted from their loose currency. The Surkuss was quite a disappointment and for once the weather can not be blamed for the poor attendance.

FIELD HOUSE EVENTS

The grid-graph has proven moderately popular with the students. The only occasion for its use this past fall was when Washington played Grinnell. The other pictures at the top of the page show the Washington and Cambridge debaters settling questions of international importance.

You can all recognize Will Rogers in his customary pose and attire there behind the footlights. Will came sometime in February and addressed a crowd of students, alumni and friend of the school, on subjects more or less humorous. That is the best we can say for Will.

The very bottom pictures show time-out, St. Louis, in the Bear-St. Louis University game which marked the resumption of athletic relations with that school down on Grand Ave.

The Hatchet acknowledges with grateful appreciation the services of Harland Frazer in the selection of the Hatchet Queen. Mr. Frazer now residing in Chicago, is an alumnus of our own School of Fine Arts and is very favorably known in his profession. The identity of the Queen was not announced until the coronation at the Junior Promenade. This bit of suspense gave an added interest to the Prom which has proven to be the biggest event of the social calendar.

The Engineers Queen is selected each year by popular vote of the engineering school. The result of the balloting is announced to the University at the Engineers Masque at which time the popular choice is crowned queen by the president of the Engineers Council.

The Art School Queen was chosen from a list of popular candidates by Mr. Charles F. Galt, a well known portrait painter of this city.

Dedication

To you, dear Readers, and to your friends whose well meant efforts have done much to make these pages a cross section of campus life, the following leaves of our most veracious record are dedicated.

We have collected with meticulous care and culled from divers sources, the material herein set down with the manifest purpose of showing you as you seem to others. But we realize that truth in its purest ray serene is often annoying and sometimes embarrassing. We can only ask that you pardon any personalities for even the most slanderous mention is meant as a compliment to your campus prominence.

Letters from the Editor's Correspondence —

Editor, The Hatchet
Washington University.

April 1, 1927

Dear Fred,

Now that the rush season is done, I just thought if it wasn't too much trouble, old man, you might put an ad in some little corner asking for girls who needs a good man to help run a summer camp for girls. I've been with you. You see, I don't want my name mentioned, well for obvious reasons. I don't want it that I'm not capable. I've had the better at camp Minnie Honka for the last couple years. what I want. Just some notice like "Experienced Camper seeks Summer position. Will do anything. Persons wanting further information, write the HATCHET for references of the applicant."

You fix it up and oblige.

Your friend

C. McAdam Clifford.

P.S. Say, don't let Hadley [illegible] He might misunderstand. Do you think you could run a picture of [illegible] one that's kind of hard to recognize? See what you can do for me.

Mr. Frederick Lacey,
Editor, The Hatchet,
Washington University.

Dear Fred,

As you know, I have done most of the work on this year's Quadrangle Section (none of the other boys had any good ideas), so I would like a favor in return from you. So I would like to ask a favor in return from you. So I would like the other day, the picture of the Editor of the Handsome Man." How could it you give me a write-up like that? Something snappy. Say, "Washington's versatile Columnist", "Hadley, the man who tries to put color in the columns."

If you don't like either of these ideas, give me some publicity as "Washington's most Permanent Senior" and I'll picture somewhere around on the page. Of course, you understand, I'm not doing this for myself. I'm doing it for the Lodge. You see, as soon as I am elected to this honor, I can write testimonials and with the money I earn from the ads I can buy furniture for the fires floor of the Phi Delt barn.

I hope you don't feel hurt because I want you to do this little thing for me.

Yours till I graduate,

Carleton S. Hadley

P.S. You should have seen our cat in drama today. I wrote it and starred in it. He should here won the cup.

When You Think of Travel

Think of Yelloway

If you are contemplating a trip of any kind consult the Information Bureau of Yelloway where one can get an insight of the many trips that are offered.

A trip to the coast that cannot be surpassed over the time-honored route of the covered wagon—over the trail of the pioneer—YellowaY winds its way across the highways of America to the end of the trail and Pacific peace.

Coast to Coast

Denver, the queen city of the plains, from which some two hundred miles of panoramic mountain peaks, many of them clad with perpetual snow, may be viewed. This city, the gateway to the Rocky Mountain National Park, owns some ten thousand acres of city and mountain parks. From here one may within an hour's time view the plains of Colorado from one of these mountain peaks or fish for alluring trout in one of her icy streams.

The West, through YellowaY, bids you welcome to her scenic territory and assures the home-seeker that many opportunities present themselves in a land where resources are abundant and the hearts of the people hold a warm welcome for the newcomer.

AARON BURR

GRACIOUS! WHAT PHYSIOGNOMIES!

On this page are presented for the first time in any book, periodical, or any printed form whatsoever, the celebrated Aaron Burr and his equally famous traymen. They need no introduction to most Washingtonians, for there is not a person who ever passed beyond the double doors—the ones that open the wrong way—of Joe's who does not know every one of these nine men.

The days of feudalism, knight errantry, etc., are but a memory in the far distant past. But down at Aaron's, right now, in 1927, are nine men who are always ready to serve you.

PI KAPPA ALPHA
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

March 31st 1927

The Shield and Diamond,
Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity.
Dear S. and D.:

Beta Lambda chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus.

As Brother Bob Smith has fallen in love, he is training four freshmen to take over his activities. The boys are planning to have a bust, marble or beer, in honor of "Stinky" Davis, the most famous young blade the chapter ever had. Brother E. Clair Cullenbine is helping out the chapter by giving embroidery lessons out at McMillan Hall.

We are planning to move into a new house in East St. Louis next week. This will make things much more convenient for the majority of the chapter. We have a lovely location in the center of the stock-yard district. Brother "P. K." Harding is the chapter's three-letter man—he got one from track, one from football, and one from the dean. Wish you was here.

Jordan.

February 29th 1927

Editor,
The Teke.
Dear Editor:

Xi chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. The fraternity has given up basketball as one of its activities. Brother "Speedy" Dyer, on his second attempt, was successful in getting himself elected president of his law class. Deacon Koch, pledge, is holding evangelistic and revival meetings in the living room, and is interesting all the boys in the Y. M. C. A. and the International Forum. The chapter continues to progress, despite the constant fatherly advice of Brother Phillips.

Fraternally yours,

John McCarroll.

SIGMA CHI FRATERNITY
TAU TAU CHAPTER
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
ST. LOUIS, MO.

Editor,
The Magazine of Sigma Chi.
Dear Ed:

Tau Tau chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. A splendid group of between 35 and 40 men were pledged at the beginning of this, our banner year. Final figures will be sent in when we are able to make an accurate check of those men whose pledges remain unbroken. Brother Gustafson, after a bitter struggle up from the ranks, signifying the spirit of a true Sig, last year was made Chief Racket of the tennis team.

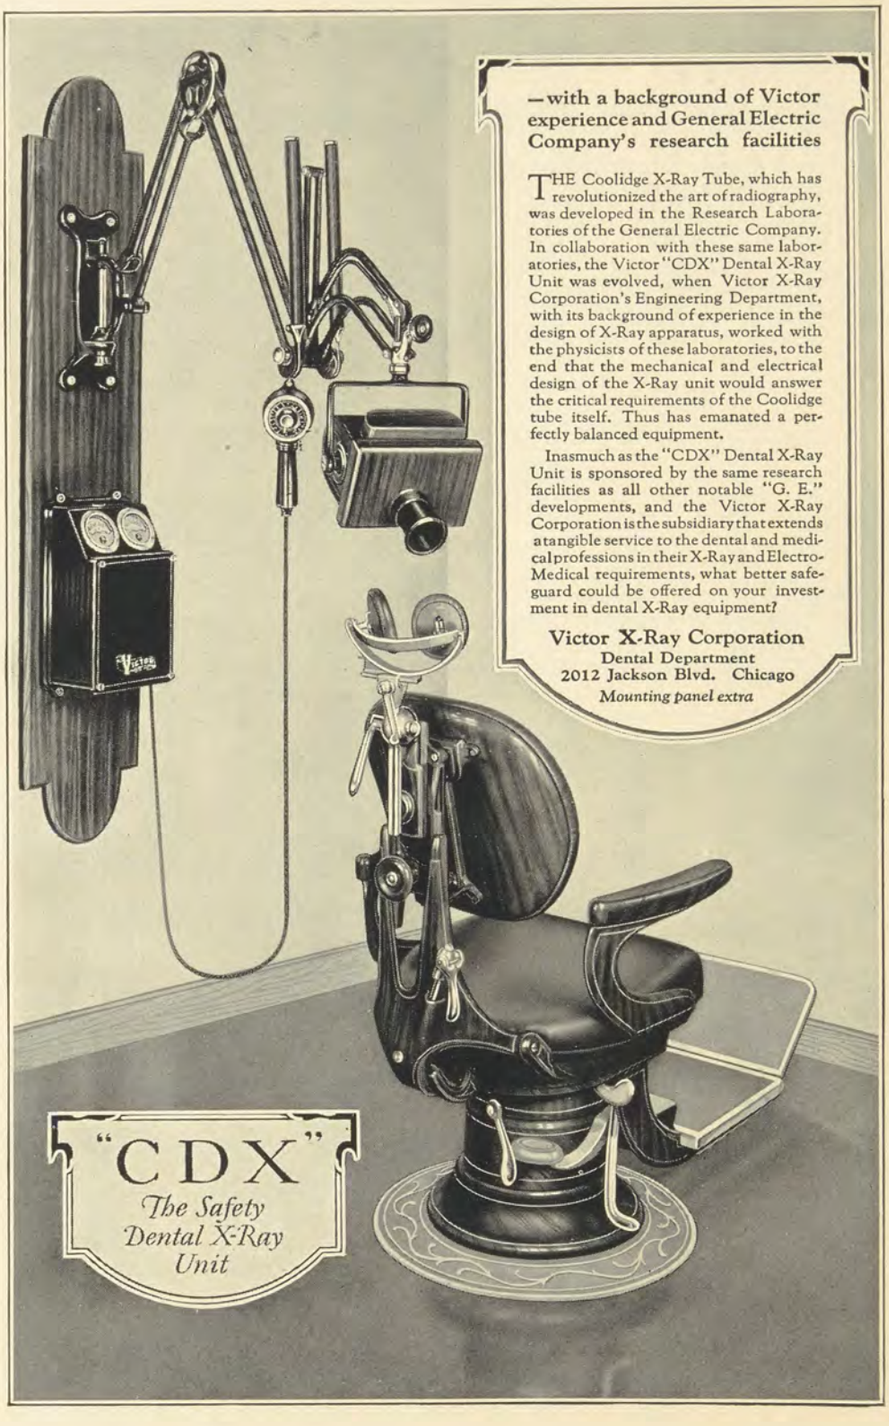

Brother Gustafson made Pralma, senior honorary society. Brother Straub also ran. Someone blundered terribly and Brother Monroe was elected editor of Dirge. He had a slight lapse of memory during one of his law exams and got another "con" when he wrote jokes on the paper. The prof explained it would have been O. K. with him if they had been good jokes.

The Witchell brothers, as in the past, have continued to be a dead loss to the chapter. Brother Torrance brought much credit to the chapter when he walked down the aisle at the Junior Prom surrounded by the same "monkey suit" in which his father was married.

Brother Bartender Posey continues to carry on a flourishing business. After unsuccessfully trying out for all the varsity teams, Brother Schaberg finally made his letter in Spring horseshoes. Brother Power, a student in the Commerce School, has become an expert on figures since serving as a lifeguard at Sunset last summer.

The chapter house, located on an island surrounded by Lake Sigma Chi, is greatly in need of some new plumbing.

Yours in the Pond,
Grant Torrance,
Substitute Secretary.

—with a background of Victor experience and General Electric Company's research facilities

THE Coolidge X-Ray Tube, which has revolutionized the art of radiography, was developed in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company. In collaboration with these same laboratories, the Victor "CDX" Dental X-Ray Unit was evolved, when Victor X-Ray Corporation's Engineering Department, with its background of experience in the design of X-Ray apparatus, worked with the physicists of these laboratories, to the end that the mechanical and electrical design of the X-Ray unit would answer the critical requirements of the Coolidge tube itself. Thus has emanated a perfectly balanced equipment.

Inasmuch as the "CDX" Dental X-Ray Unit is sponsored by the same research facilities as all other notable "G. E." developments, and the Victor X-Ray Corporation is the subsidiary that extends a tangible service to the dental and medical professions in their X-Ray and Electro-Medical requirements, what better safeguard could be offered on your investment in dental X-Ray equipment?

The Fuel that serves 46 Million People

GAS, the clean fuel of science! Convenient, efficient, dependable.

In this country the use of gas has doubled in 10 years, quadrupled in 20 years. Over 46 million people enjoy the benefits of gas service.

A century ago there was one use for gas—lighting. Today, it is estimated, over 21,000 trade processes are being carried out with the aid of gas.

In the home gas is used for heating, cooking, water-warming; it supplies refrigeration; heats the washer, ironer and laundry dryer; burns garbage; warms the garage, protects the car. In the heating needs of industry gas offers advantages that no other fuel can give.

A Most Adaptable Contract

THE STANDARD SPECIAL

This life insurance policy has been prepared with special features that will enable the insured to adapt it to his particular needs as they may change from time to time.

By leaving the guaranteed coupons with the Company the insured creates for himself a 25 Year Endowment policy.

Or the insured can use these coupons in part payment of the premiums and by so doing converts his policy to a whole life non-participating contract without medical examination.

In addition to these features this policy has optional provisions permitting the use of the coupons to purchase paid-up insurance—and this policy becomes paid-up for the face amount from 11 to 21 years depending on the age of the insured.

LOVE WILL FIND A WAY

You're Only Young Once

A summer flirtation. Here is absolute evidence against the editor of Dirge who claims to be woman proof.

"Won't you please say the word, Nancy dear?"

"Oh, Jack!"

"Yes, Don."

This girl is evidently taller than her lover!

This is not a love scene, but is on a par with the other views on this page as far as 'scandal' is concerned. This is none other than the great Student President himself, guardian of the students' conduct, morals, and what you got, caught in the act of throwing snowballs on the first quadrangle. (Excerpt from official bulletin: Students will please refrain from snowballing on the first quadrangle. Herbert S. Hadley, Chancellor)

Another proposal? No you're wrong this time — this is Castillio publicly rehearsing his memorable love scene with Rosita in the musical comedy last April.

Another view of Milton Monroe, high mogul of Dirge. The same party but a different party. (Notice that Mr. Monroe seldom shows his face in a picture. We can hardly blame him)

IF YOU READ THIS YOU'RE CRAZY
SAYS WOMEN'S COUNCIL

Daytime flirtations on the Quad are rapidly supplanting classroom work and athletics in some of the larger Universities.

The Take-Off Man's idea of a perfect date.

Two reasons for having dates.

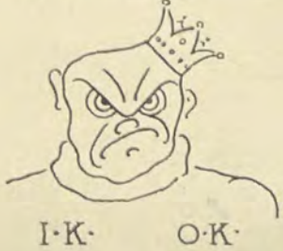

Tabacnic Bwerp, who says that if women do not quit making their toilet in public he will inaugurate a new style for men.

Photo of student in bed, who has just seen the point of one of those subtle Dirge jokes, heard earlier in the day.

Reason for the popular movement to have the library steps made higher.

MISSOURI BETA CHAPTER
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
ST. LOUIS, MO.

April 3rd 1927

The Record,
Sigma Alpha Epsilon.
Dear Editor:

Missouri Beta chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus.

The second floor of the house has been converted into a laundry agency for the use of Brother Waterous. Gertrude Ederle, famous conqueror of the English Channel, visited the chapter during the spring rainy season. After dinner she showed the boys some tricks out in front of the house. We have several splendid locations in the county, which we are planning to rent for rushing purposes next fall.

Brotherly love,
Bob Miltenberger,

George Banta, Jr., Editor,

Dear Brother Banta:

Missouri Gamma chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. The chapter, aided by several noted campus personages, presented the annual musical comedy, "Rosita," this year. We finally collected enough money to buy some furniture; we got two chairs and a rug for the bathroom.

Despite all wishes to the contrary, Brother Hadley is completing his sixth year at the university. Brother Ledbetter has refused to pay his gas bill. Brother Thompson has left the chapter to seek bigger and better things. "O. K.," said John M. as he departed. Brother Quinby's nose qualified him for the presidency of the Commerce School, to which he was recently elected.

The traditional control of the Glee Club by the K. A.'s was wrested from that lodge when Brother "Canary" Hyndman was elected president. The chapter easily breezed through in the fall track meet and took firsts in all events, winning a huge cup. (There were no other entries.)

Brother "Ozgar" Morgens has become famous as the "every-chapter-has-one" boy. (Other fraternities qualifying are Kappa Alpha with McCoy, Sig Alph with Waterous, and the Betas with Marshall.) Brother "Non" Senseney continues to act like an animal over in the Architectural School. Brothers Hencken and Herr, varsity musicians de luxe, will provide doggy music on a cattle boat this summer. (This is no bull.)

Yours in the Bond,
Carl Revelle,

BETA THETA CHAPTER OF KAPPA ALPHA

WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
ST. LOUIS, MO.

April Fool

To the Editor of the Kappa Alpha Journal.
Dear Brother:

Beta Theta chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. We are running neck and neck with S. T. Ω. to see which one can give the most dances. We are quite a bit of neck ahead.

We took in ten normal boys during pledge season, but are not expecting much of them; in fact, we would be quite surprised if they amounted to a whoop. With a great deal of outside help (including that of Brother Clifford of Pralma in selecting the judges) our loyal members won the cup given for the best act in Pralma Vodvil.

Brother "Efficiency" McCoy has become a public nuisance as editor of the yearbook. As in years past, our chapter has a splendid showing of athletes. Sister Kaho, who has been working vigorously on the fall styles, announces that the waist-line will be two inches higher next fall. (Brother Turner disagrees.)

Brother Zinsmeyer reports that his shows are attaining a much higher degree of success than those of last year. His Thyrsus one-acts were superb. His musical comedy showed the results of the months of hard work he spent on it, and his annual was another star in his crown.

Brother Willhite is thinking about Marryin'. Brother Taussig has been elected president of the chapter Spree Club. The club will hold its regular Saturday evening rehearsals at 9900 South, he announces.

House Manager Turner has been able to give up his sandwich tours, as the chapter's finances, despite Brother Turner, have improved considerably. There are no outstanding debts at present.

Fraternally yours,
James Britt,
Grand Muckamuck.

IOTA CHAPTER
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY

Editor,
The Theta Xi Quarterly,
St. Louis, Mo.

April 14th 1927

Dear Brother:

Iota chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. We are upholding the tradition of old Iota in having at least one big campus office each year. Although we may not be heard from very much, the chapter is still active, at least, we think it is.

Iota, Washington University.

BETA THETA PI

ALPHA IOTA CHAPTER
WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY
ST. LOUIS, MO.

Editor-in-Chief, The Beta Theta Pi,
Springfield, Ill.

March 28th 1927

Dear Brother:

We still have Brother Cunliff.

Alpha Iota chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. The assistance of our alumni in connection with Pralma Vodvil was conspicuous by its absence this year. In fact, the act was dirtier than usual. We still have Brother Cunliff.

Brother Conrades is again an outstanding member of the varsity nine and expects to be elected captain. Brother Conrades was formerly connected with Student Life, the newspaper of the university. We still have Brother Cunliff.

Brother Marshall is paying his fraternity dues by delivering nightly lectures on "That Interesting Period of Czecho-Slovakian History from 4 a. m. to 7:30 a. m." We still have Brother Cunliff.

Brothers Jackes, Woods, and E. B. McDonald, the latter an alumnus, are taking a trip to China when school is over. While there, in addition to offering the services of Beta Theta Pi in settling the international imbroglio there, they will install Hop Wu Chapter of our most noble order at Wun-Hung-Lo University.

The rest of the boys are still in school, but have done nothing worthy of mention.

Fraternally,
Franklin Jackes,
President.

P. S. Bert Cheatham was elected captain of the ball team. (We still have Brother Cunliff.)

to your dealer—and enjoy the drink that's bringing back good fellowship to America

The minute you cascade your first glassful out of the bottle and raise it expectantly to your lips, you'll realize that here at last is a drink with the thick, creamy head, full body and rich, fragrant flavor that makes optimists of the most dubious. Sold everywhere. In bottles only.

THE FOUNDATION

IN many an American city today tall structures stand on foundations that were planned by their architects to support the weight of extra stories if the future's need should call for such additions. Their very existence is proof of the vision of men who provided for that which they could not definitely foresee.

They could, however, and did catch the vision of a national growth which would necessitate a service continent-wide in scope. They could and did provide the foundation for a structure capable of growing with the nation.

The proof of their vision lies in the fact that America today has a nation wide, universal telephone service.

Editor, The Palm,

Dear Palmist:

Missouri Delta Zeta started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus. A sudden madness swept our campus recently, and everyone rushed to get into houses. Missouri Delta Zeta retained her customary conservative outlook on the world and stuck to the humble abode in Tower Hall.

We are very fortunate in having among us this year Brother Bruno, the only man who ever made Thurtene without a single activity. Brother Alt distinguished himself in "Rosita," this year's musical comedy, and the way in which he spoke his line, "My Gawd, what was that!" will go down in history.

In Brother Eckert we have at last got a full captain of the basketball team. Along with Brother Bruno, we have another celebrity in Brother Knight, who as manager of the varsity baseball team received a letter during a year when that sport was abolished in the Valley. Withal, a smart bunch of lads.

Affectionately yours,

Douglas Gibson.

Dearest Editor:

Alpha Xi chapter started off the year in splendid shape and is recognized as the leader on the campus.

We are very fortunate in having Brother Eichenbaum back this year to head the chapter. We are also extremely fortunate in getting Brother Eichenbaum back to serve as house manager. We have many men holding important positions on the campus; for instance, there is Brother Eichenbaum, who as a member of Pralma and in many activities has distinguished himself. The chapter, although it is not generally known, controls Student Life, through having as business manager of that paper one of its members, namely, Brother Eichenbaum.

We were very pleased to receive as a gift a large radio set, thereby doing away with the necessity of buying Victrola records. This was indeed a life-saver, as a coin-box which had been started to collect money for records, when opened at the end of six months, was found to contain only fifteen cents.

BECKTOLD COVERS

THE beautiful cover on this annual is a Becktold.

Because it is a Becktold it will prove durable and lasting.....a compliment to the wisdom and farsightedness of the staff in charge.

Becktold never fails to lend an atmosphere of true quality. The handsome grain, originality of design, deep embossing and artistic blending of colors have made this cover preferred. On these qualities the Becktold has built its reputation for complete satisfaction.

COLONEL BOORSTIN

For the last twenty-five years, yes, since the campus was rented out to the World's Fair Commission in 1902 up to the present date, Mr. Boorstin has served the University as Superintendent of Grounds and Buildings. Mr. Boorstin, or better known as the Colonel, remembers when only five of the present buildings had been completed: University Hall, Cupples I and II, Liggett Dormitory and the Old Art School which is just being demolished. He recalls vividly when the faculty and students moved from the old buildings on Seventeenth and Washington to occupy their new campus home. Under the Colonels watchful eye, the University has grown to large physical proportions. New buildings have been erected, the whole campus has been landscaped, trees have been planted and roads have been built.

The Colonel is an authority on campus history and tradition. He has seen customs created and abolished, and the constant flow of students through the portals of the University has made the Colonel a large number of acquaintances among the alumni throughout the City. The Colonel's years of experience and uninterrupted service have made him a fixture of the University. He says that the students know him as "The Colonel, the freshmen are afraid of him, the sophomores hate him, the juniors love him and the seniors call him their friend."

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

The 1928 Hatchet Board takes this opportunity to thank those students and friends of the University who have aided in the publication of this volume though not connected in any way with the Staff. The faculty have cooperated with the staff in every way possible. We wish to thank especially, Mr. S. A. Marsh who has helped us inestimably in our financial affairs, and Mr. Senturia whose generosity in surrendering his own private office enabled the Hatchet to operate a campus studio for the convenience of the students. In this connection, we are also indebted to Mr. Steibel, Chief Engineer of the University, whose cooperation was a great help to the staff.

The St. Louis Globe Democrat, the Post Dispatch, and the St. Louis Star have rendered valuable assistance in furnishing photographs when our own files were incomplete. We trust this arrangement will continue for the coming year. Other snapshots were furnished by Norman Goldblatt, Meade McArdle, and Walter Vesper.

The assistance of Mr. Warren Ludwig and Mr. Delos Nicholson, both members of the faculty of the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, a department of the University, has enabled the art work of the Hatchet to compare favorably with the leading annuals of the country. We wish to thank them for their trouble and valuable criticism. Students of the art school whose work has been used in the book are Eloise Frazier, Roger Korschgen, Roscoe Misselhorn, Grace Nelson and Ernest Bixler. The pen and ink wash drawings which were used as subdivision pages, are the work of Alfred C. Parker. Noel A. Grady is responsible for the series of oil paintings reproduced in four colors on the main division pages.

Editorial assistance has been rendered by Miss Grace M. Denison, Secretary to the Chancellor, and by Arthur O'Neill who revised and corrected the material for the Old Washington University section.

The Hatchet Staff acknowledges the courteous service of the Rogers Printing Co., The Becktold Printing and Book Manufacturing Co. and the Jahn & Ollier Engraving Co. To Mr. Edward W. Hill, Manager of the Jahn & Ollier plant, is due especial credit for his personal supervision of the many details which are a part of producing a college annual. The Hatchet extends its heartiest thanks to Mr. Hill for the time he has devoted to Hatchet affairs and for his taste and criticism in the designing of the book.

The Business Management is obligated to Sadae Landau, whose work on the Circulation Staff has been of great value to the Hatchet. Miss Landau who assisted in Hatchet work during her freshman and sophomore years, volunteered as a Hatchet salesman and her success in that capacity is due to her persistent efforts and many friendships among the student body.
